THE ARLINGTON LABEL

Honors attained and traditions nurtured during Arlington High School's four-year history have woven the sturdy black and gold fabric of The Arlington Label, a symbol of student accomplishment and pride.

Maturing with the first four-year graduating class, The Arlington Label is apparent in the contributions of its proud bearers as they take active part in school and community life.

THE ARLINGTON LABEL
PROUDLY WORN

Together We Weave Our Tapestry Of Spirit and Tradition, Displaying With Pride Arlington's Trademarks

We are Arlington. We are a vibrant torrent streaming through the halls; a surging force cheering our team on to victory; a melodious choir warming up on stage.

We are freshmen struggling with stubborn locker combinations; sophomores exploring biology; juniors proudly wearing class rings; and seniors campaigning tirelessly in the fall mock election.

Through our many activities we create a mark of quality known as The Arlington Label. We each contribute a vital element to the forming of this seal and we earn the right to exhibit it proudly.

We step forward from the crowd to find ourselves honored individually as Golden Knights. We are the tall and the short and the in-between. Since that first day as freshmen four years ago, we are Arlington.

THE ARLINGTON LABEL

Attention! . . . As drum major, Senior Class President Bill Crawford directs the band through one of its intricate routines.

Individuals All—We Combine Talents, Forming

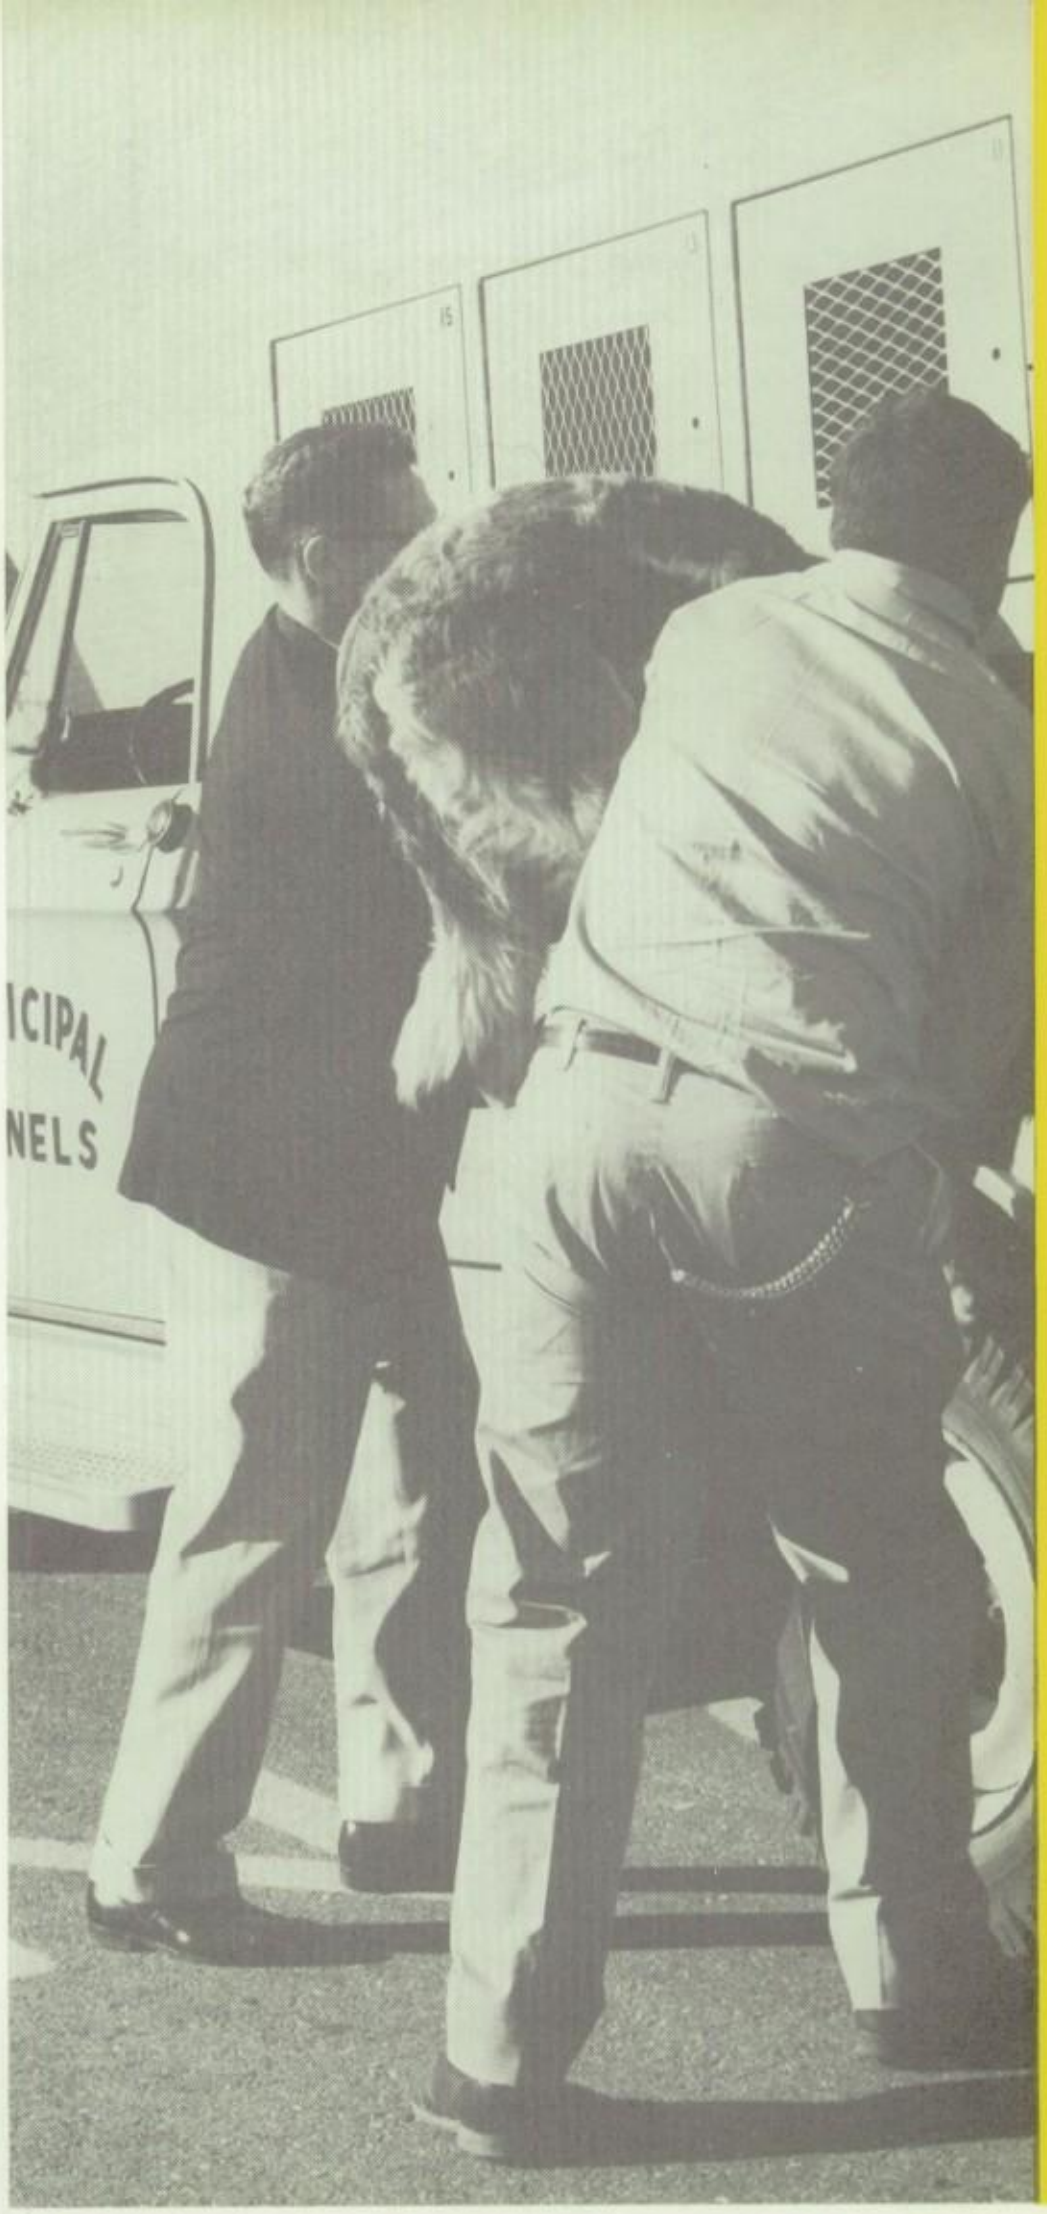
Bus Bingo . . . After the pealing of the final bell, students rush to board one of the 5,500 bus loads of pupils which enter and leave the campus during the school year.

By establishing a label of tradition, we devote four years of our life to Arlington's history and, in turn, reap the rewards of educational growth.

Patterns for Progress

Expanding from a small community of 1500 students four years ago, our population of 3000 Golden Knights now rates as the second largest in the state. Filling 104 spaces for pupil activity including classes, gym, library, auditorium, and cafeteria, we study in Indiana's largest high school building.

Fours years, unique and yet alike, impress upon us the challenge of education. Winning our first state championship, celebrating our second homecoming, planning our third Senior Play, and publishing our fourth yearbook, we build on the Arlington Label of loyalty.



Canine Capers . . . Vice-Principal Robert Turner bids farewell to an unexpected guest—a friendly St. Bernard who possessed persistent hopes of enrolling as a Golden Knight.

Number One . . . Ron Causey proudly presents Mr. Clevenger with the State Wrestling Championship trophy.

Jubilant Journalists . . . David Wild, Sharon Edwards, Steve Dickhaus, and Steve Jones proudly display the trophies they won in competition with other Marion County high school journalists at Press Day.

Tempting Treat . . . A banquet dinner—Knight style—awaits the approval of Principal Ralph Clevenger.

With Spirit and Enthusiasm,

Reference Round-up . . . John Rafferty, Cathy Hale, JoAnne Wagoner, and Kelly Combs find the library's new card catalog a tremendous help in locating additional research sources.

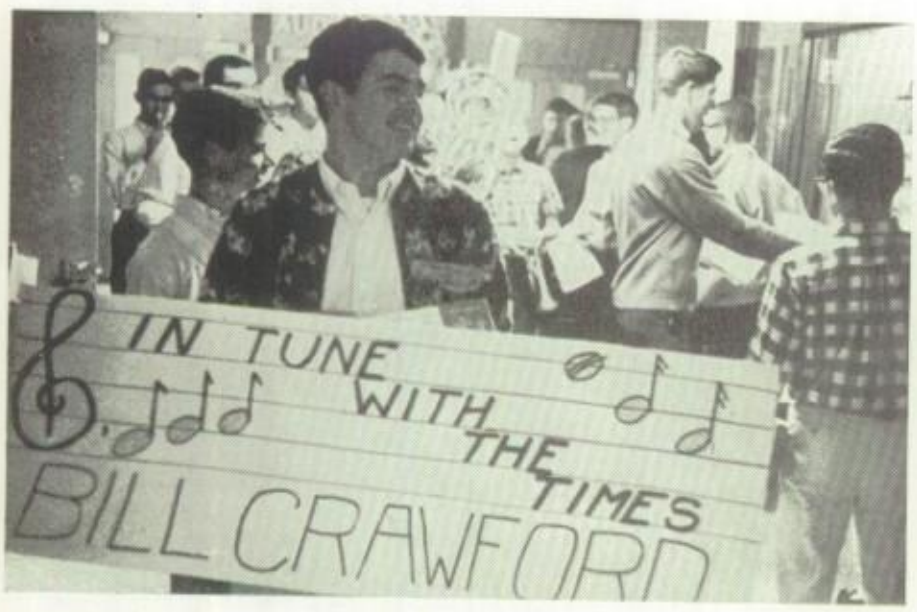
We Create Golden Atmosphere

Congratulations! . . . Glowing with pride and warmth, juniors Bob Miller and Lana Ferrell proudly display the gift of an admiring cast.

Royal Ride . . . Chauffeuring Homecoming Queen Barb Freund and her father at the Carmel game is the honor of Forest Witsman.

Governor Gab . . . Federalist Rick Musser puts heart and soul into a rousing speech which aids his mock election victory.



Campaign Cadence . . . Ric Snow heads one of the enthusiastic marches of the senior election. Bill Crawford, later elected class president, hands campaign literature to passing seniors.

Whistle Stop . . . Presidential Candidate Barry Goldwater gives his autograph to senior Jerry Grable.

THE ARLINGTON LABEL

As 'Politicians,' We Toss Our Hats in the Ring

Armed with campaign posters and buttons we challenge the world of diplomacy and capture the joys, tears, excitement, and frustration that form the fascinating realm of politics.

By devoting long hours to stewing over platforms at strategy sessions or to feverish campaigning, we learn the workings of our democratic system in the mock election. Each fall we become citizens of the State of Arlington and our Government and Economics classes elect state, county, and city officials from the Nationalist and Federalist party candidates.

Observing history in the making, we prepare for the responsibility of informed voting by closely watching the presidential election of 1964 and supporting the candidates of our choice.

Handy Hospitality . . . Nancy Schrieber, junior, joins cheering Hoosiers in welcoming LBJ.

Conventional Clap . . . Nationalists convene in the Science Lecture Room to map out their campaign strategy.

. . . Of the United States Of America . . . Seniors Lyn Keener and Teresa Ferguson pledge allegiance to the flag before a convention of the mock election.

THE ARLINGTON LABEL

We earn silent accolades as innumerable hours devoted to service lead to an ultimate goal of leadership in our school, community, and nation.

Maturing to Knighthood,

Developing a behind-the-scenes label of social responsibility, we fulfill the role of ambitious American teens by participating in volunteer hospital work, Junior Achievement projects, church youth groups, and charity drives.

Extra-curricular school activities balance these events as we give time and energy to Goldenaires, debate, thespians, music, and science projects.

Combining qualities of self-discipline and dedication with academic achievements, we claim the Arlington Label as a part of our daily lives.

Take 3! . . . Ros Stovall, Mr. Junior Achievement, awaits the signal from Don Worsham to begin his WOOF-CO TV editorial.

High Hopes . . . Voicing vital support, Goldenaires Barbara Freund, Joan Buchanan, and Karen Thomsen urge the Golden Knights to raise the score during the Carmel game.

We Mold Our Lives By Accepting Responsibility

Helping Hands . . . Seniors Gail Schilling, Susie Todd, and Marty Darst inspect the toys they helped collect before sending them to the Student Mental Halth Association Gift-Lift Shop.

"Here's to Arlington
Sing we praise to thee!
May your hallowed halls
Resound with wisdom and might . . ."

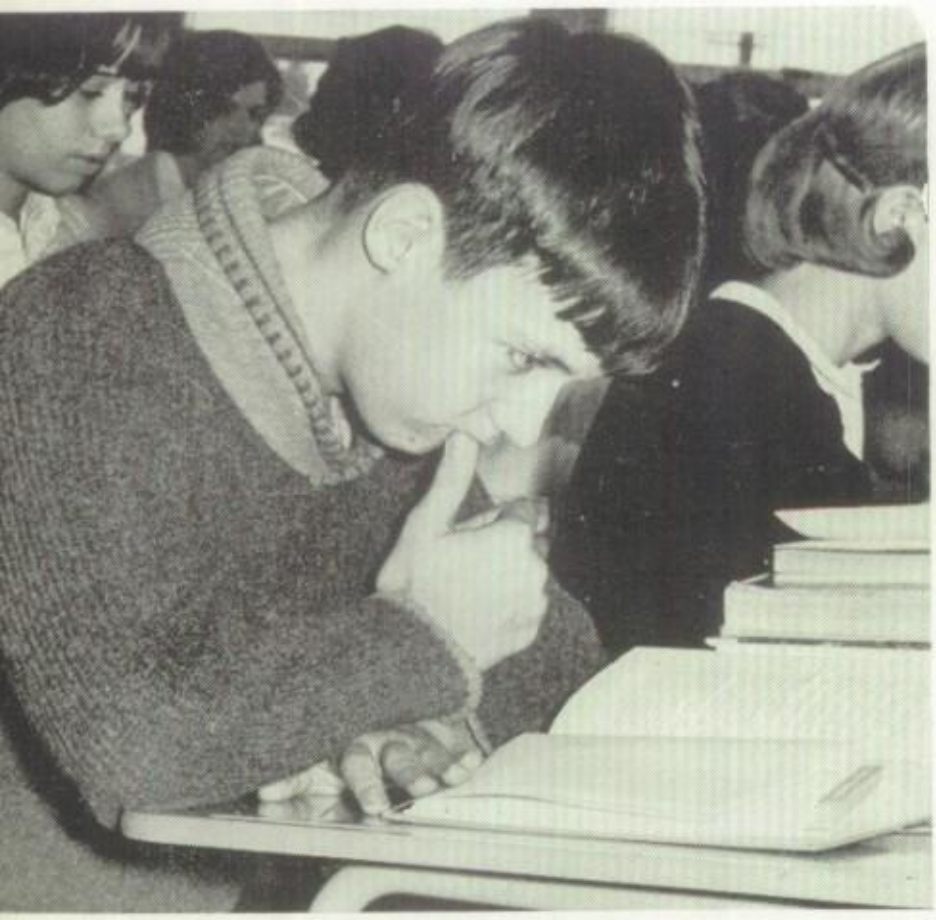
Establishing a firm tradition, we weave a four-year pattern of scholarship in the educational world of science and humanities.

From essay tests to heated discussions, our minds mature as we aim for the Arlington Label of academic achievement.

ACADEMICS

"Who Was Raskolnikoff? . . . Senior Brad Blankenship answers Mrs. Sandra Cohen, English teacher, in his world literature course. Open only in the fall semester to seniors, world literature offers a firm background in international writings.



Thumb Theory . . . Junior Ken Davis ponders a difficult question in his English semester departmental.

Poems and Prose Pose

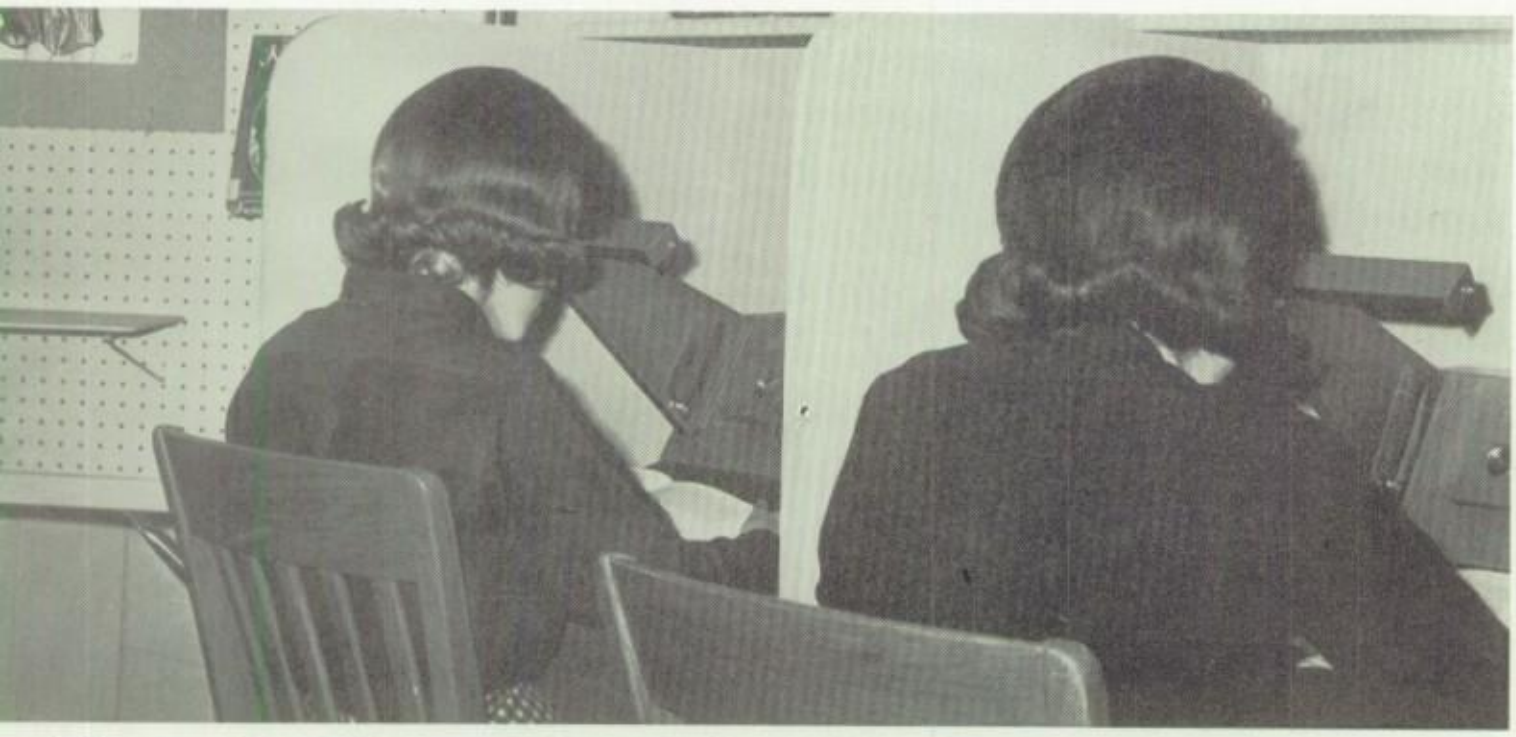
"We, as writers, toil ardently over our works transforming our thoughts into the written word. A view of the product reflects the care we take."

Writing is only one of the many skills taught in the English program at Arlington. In four years, this comprehensive plan of study not only prepares pupils for a succeeding English course or college, but also for a life in the complex society of today's world; therefore, throughout the four-year program, English teachers instruct students in other skills which this society demands. These other requirements include the ability to speak clearly with self-confidence, the ability to read swiftly with comprehension, and the ability to listen attentively with interest. These skills, teamed with those in writing, add up to a complete, basic English background.

"Equipped with pen, ink, and paper, we must climb the mountain of writing achievement to reach the summit of our success, a masterpiece."

Peggy Preaches . . . Orating regularly for a beginning speech course, senior Peggy Preston presents a talk characterized by the poise and organization which the class requires.

Persistant Challenge as Knights Master English



Ladies, Start Your Machines . . . Following the bouncing light, freshmen increase their reading speed and comprehension as a part of the semester orientation course.

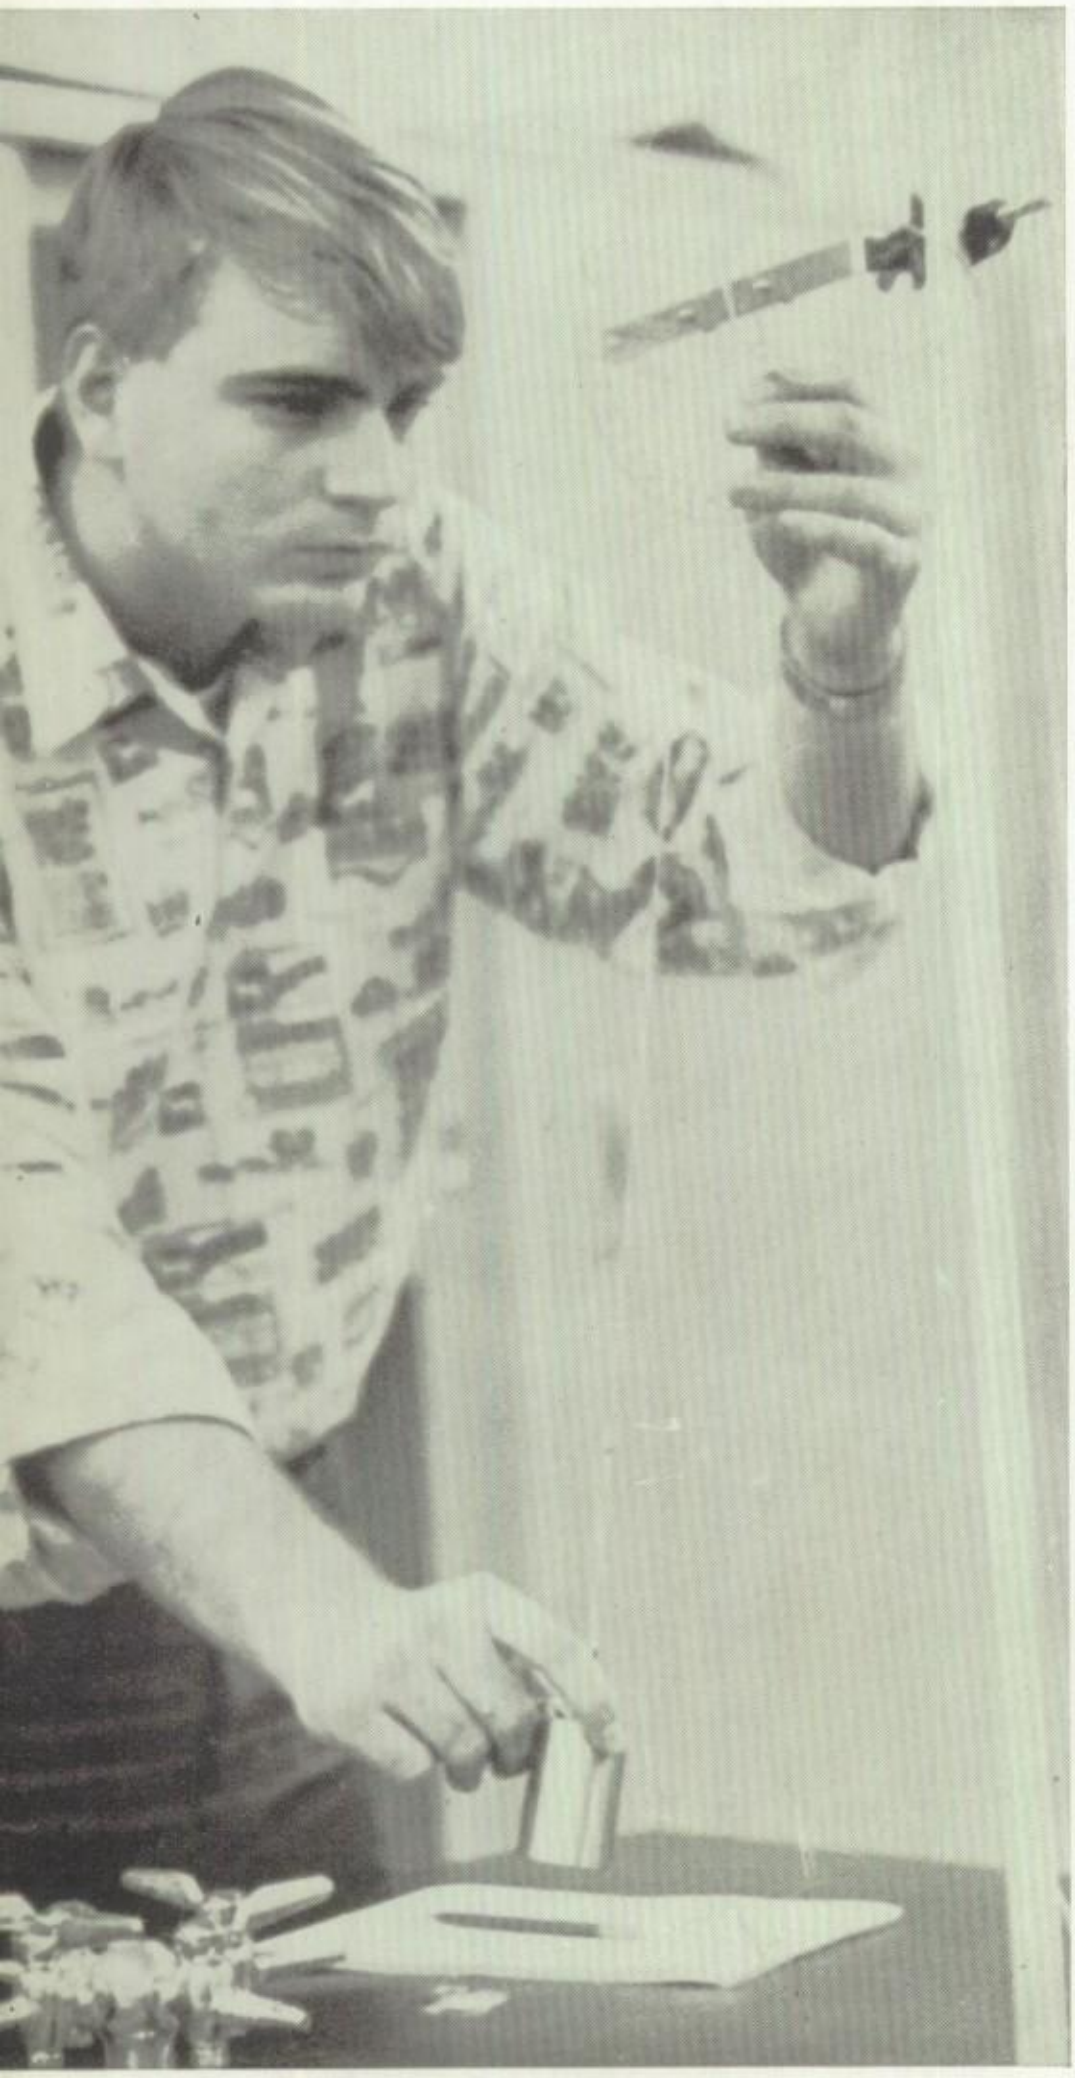
'In Orbit' With Room Additions and Honors,

"We, the scientists, study ever-changing ideas—ideas of life, ideas of motion and force, and ideas of our universe."

This year the Science Department displays its many honors proudly and deservedly. Of the twenty-seven city and county schools from which Science Seminar participants are chosen, Arlington is once again the best represented, boasting fourteen scientists attending the program.

With the addition of the new central wing come three biology rooms, three rooms for physical science, two rooms for chemistry, and one room for physics. Another attraction of the Science Department this year, the special project room, supplies space and equipment for Science Fair preparation. The unique Arlington planetarium enlightens astronomy classes.

"Through test tubes and microscopes, we make our way from the high school laboratory of today to the scientific exploration of tomorrow."



Figuring Physics . . . Studying a perplexing lab problem, senior Dave White utilizes the new physics facilities which were added to the science wing last year.

And The Moon Will Rise . . . Explaining the planetarium, James Abraham, science teacher, speaks to visiting grade schoolers.

Scientists Pursue Laws

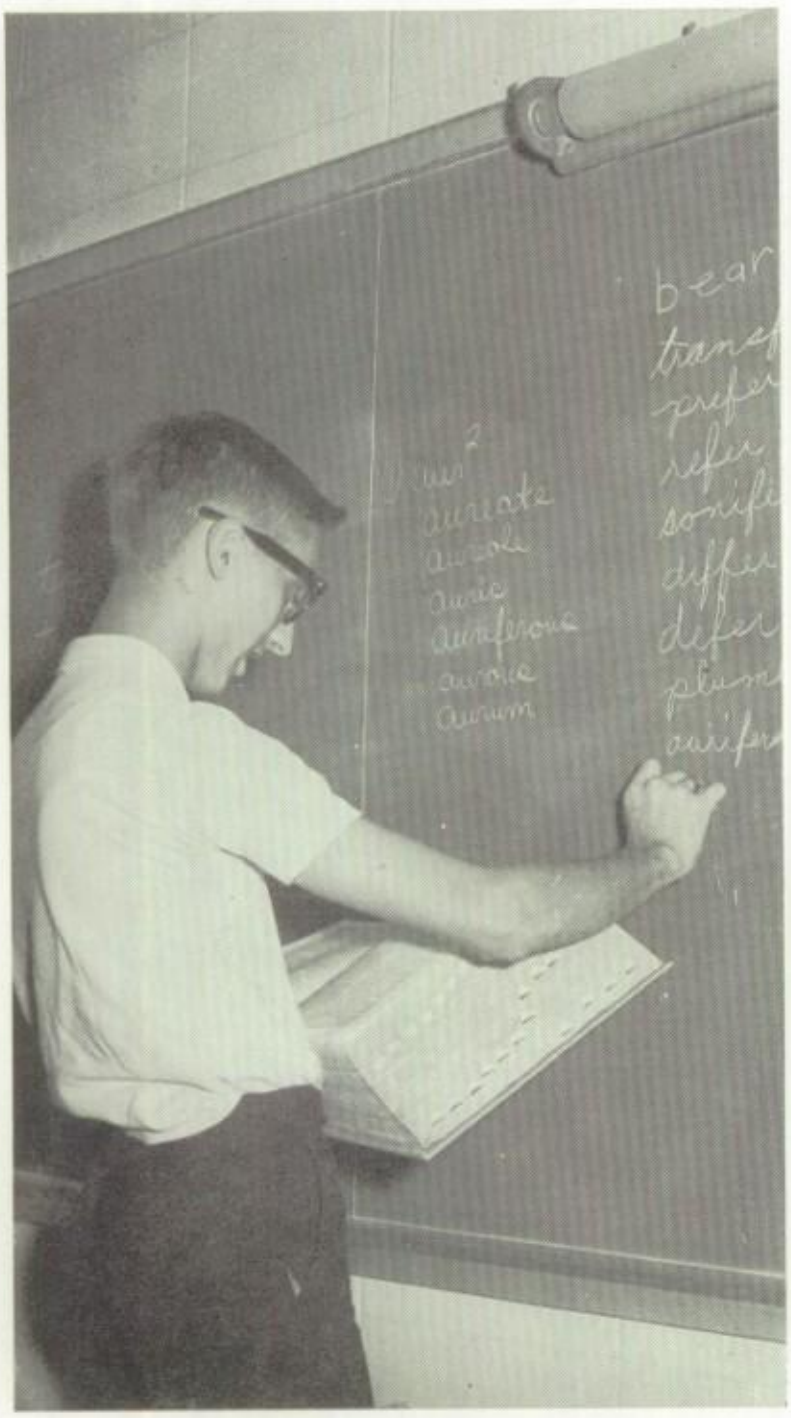
Maybe It's A Weed . . . Pondering over the identity of a leaf, junior Al Holman and Miss Margaret Reynolds, biology teacher, collect plant specimens during a class field trip to a wooded area.

Rat Check . . . Senior Cynthia Miller, who won a trip to the National Science Fair last year, works on her new experiment.

Let's Make CO_2 . . . Junior Don Worsham lights the bunsen burner as Carol Bowers records the work.

Lunch—Latin Style . . . Feasting on grapes, punch, and cupcakes, Latin Club members Bob Hartley and Mike Davis, juniors, relive the Roman era as they enjoy the club's annual toga-dinner party.

Foreign Tongues Reveal



Diff-i-cult . . . Deciphering words in Derivatives, senior Mike Robling utilizes a dictionary and chalk.

"As students, we recognize the need for more than one language. As a result, we strive to gain fluency in foreign tongues."

Ten well-qualified teachers instruct students in four foreign languages. A modern language lab serves to supplement their classroom efforts.

Students select between two of modern society's most common cultural languages, Spanish and French. Those scientifically inclined may select German, a valuable asset in that field. Latin, the origin of many modern languages, adds still another intriguing path to follow. In addition, Derivatives is available to students desiring to delve into the heart of our ever-changing vocabularly.

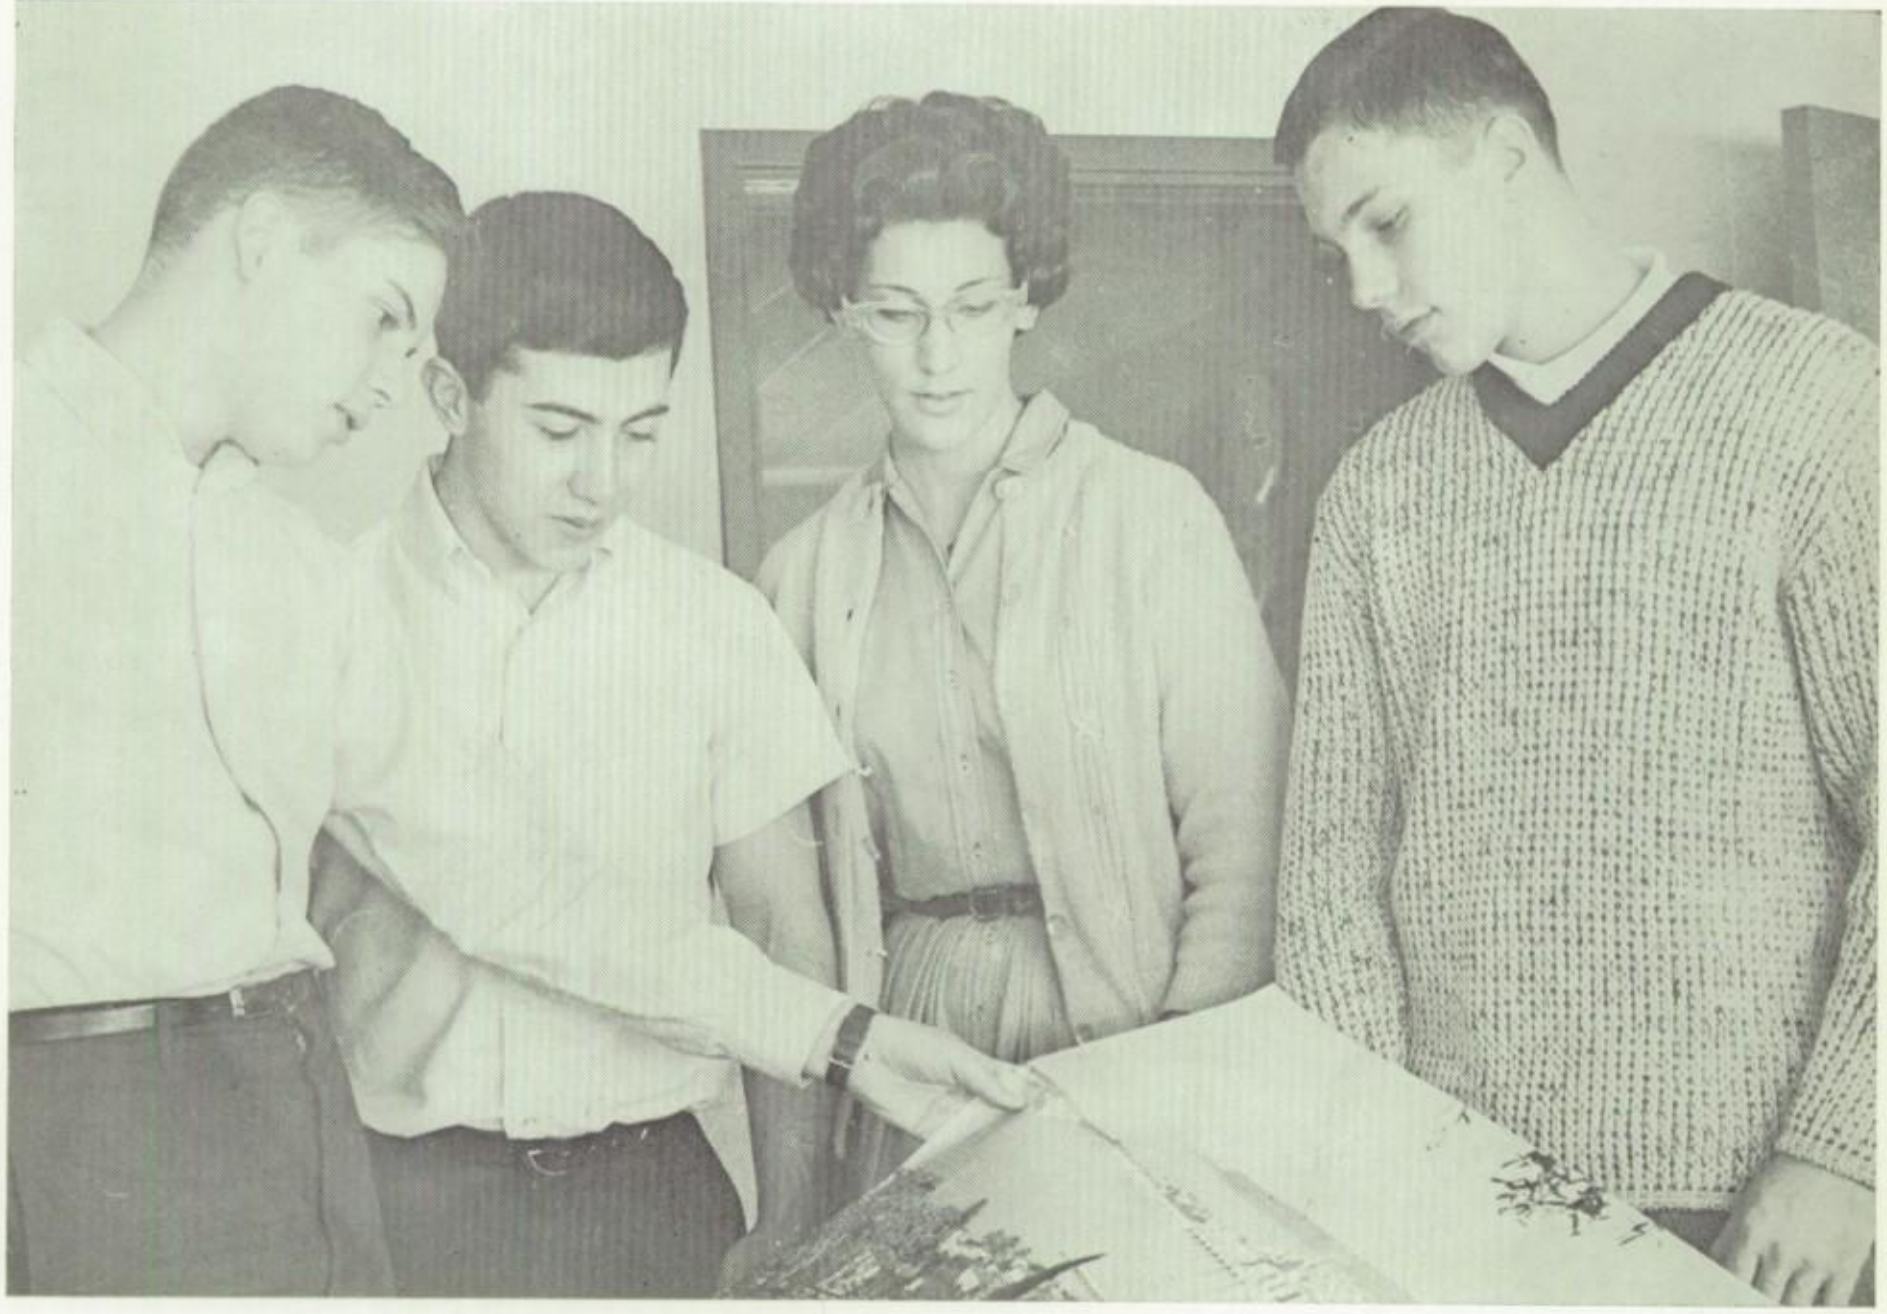
Representing our school and the department in the Indiana University Honors Program in the last three years, our advanced foreign language students strive for a high level of achievement.

"Through an aquaintance of our chosen languages, we can make advances in understanding the different countries and cultures of the world."

It Sounds Like This . . . Miss Carolyn Norman pronounces a difficult sound for her Spanish class in the language laboratory. These weekly sessions supplement classroom work and aid students in the study of foreign language.

Traditional Customs of Countries, Continents

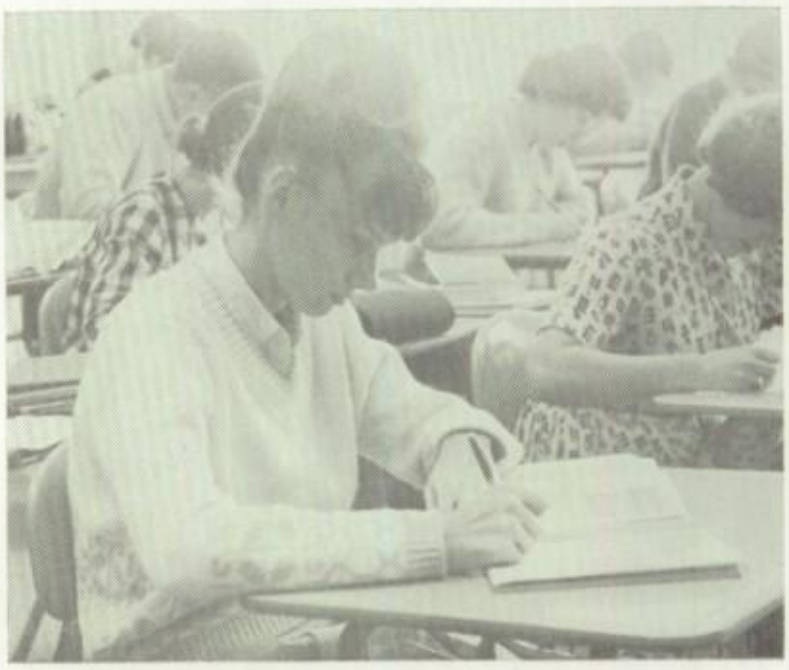
Far Away Places . . . Former finalist Paul Hornbeck, who traveled to France last summer, reports to Honors Program hopefuls Mark Roberts, Alan Melby, and Gail Spoolstra.



As History Students Chart Courses for Future,

Panel Parley . . . Expressing a specific point, William Hering, social studies teacher, supervises a group discussion on a topic of world history, a course which teaches the importance of kno wledge of past international events.

Social Studies . . . Seniors Lois Phillips and Daphne Hilscher search through the History Department's library.



Note-Taker . . . Senior Becky Pierce, studying for a government test, records some important facts.

Past and Present Unveil

"We, the historians, saturate our minds with facts, events, and opinions so that we may better live in this modern world."

A study of past and present events with a thirst for understanding tomorrow's problems is the goal of Arlington's Social Studies Department.

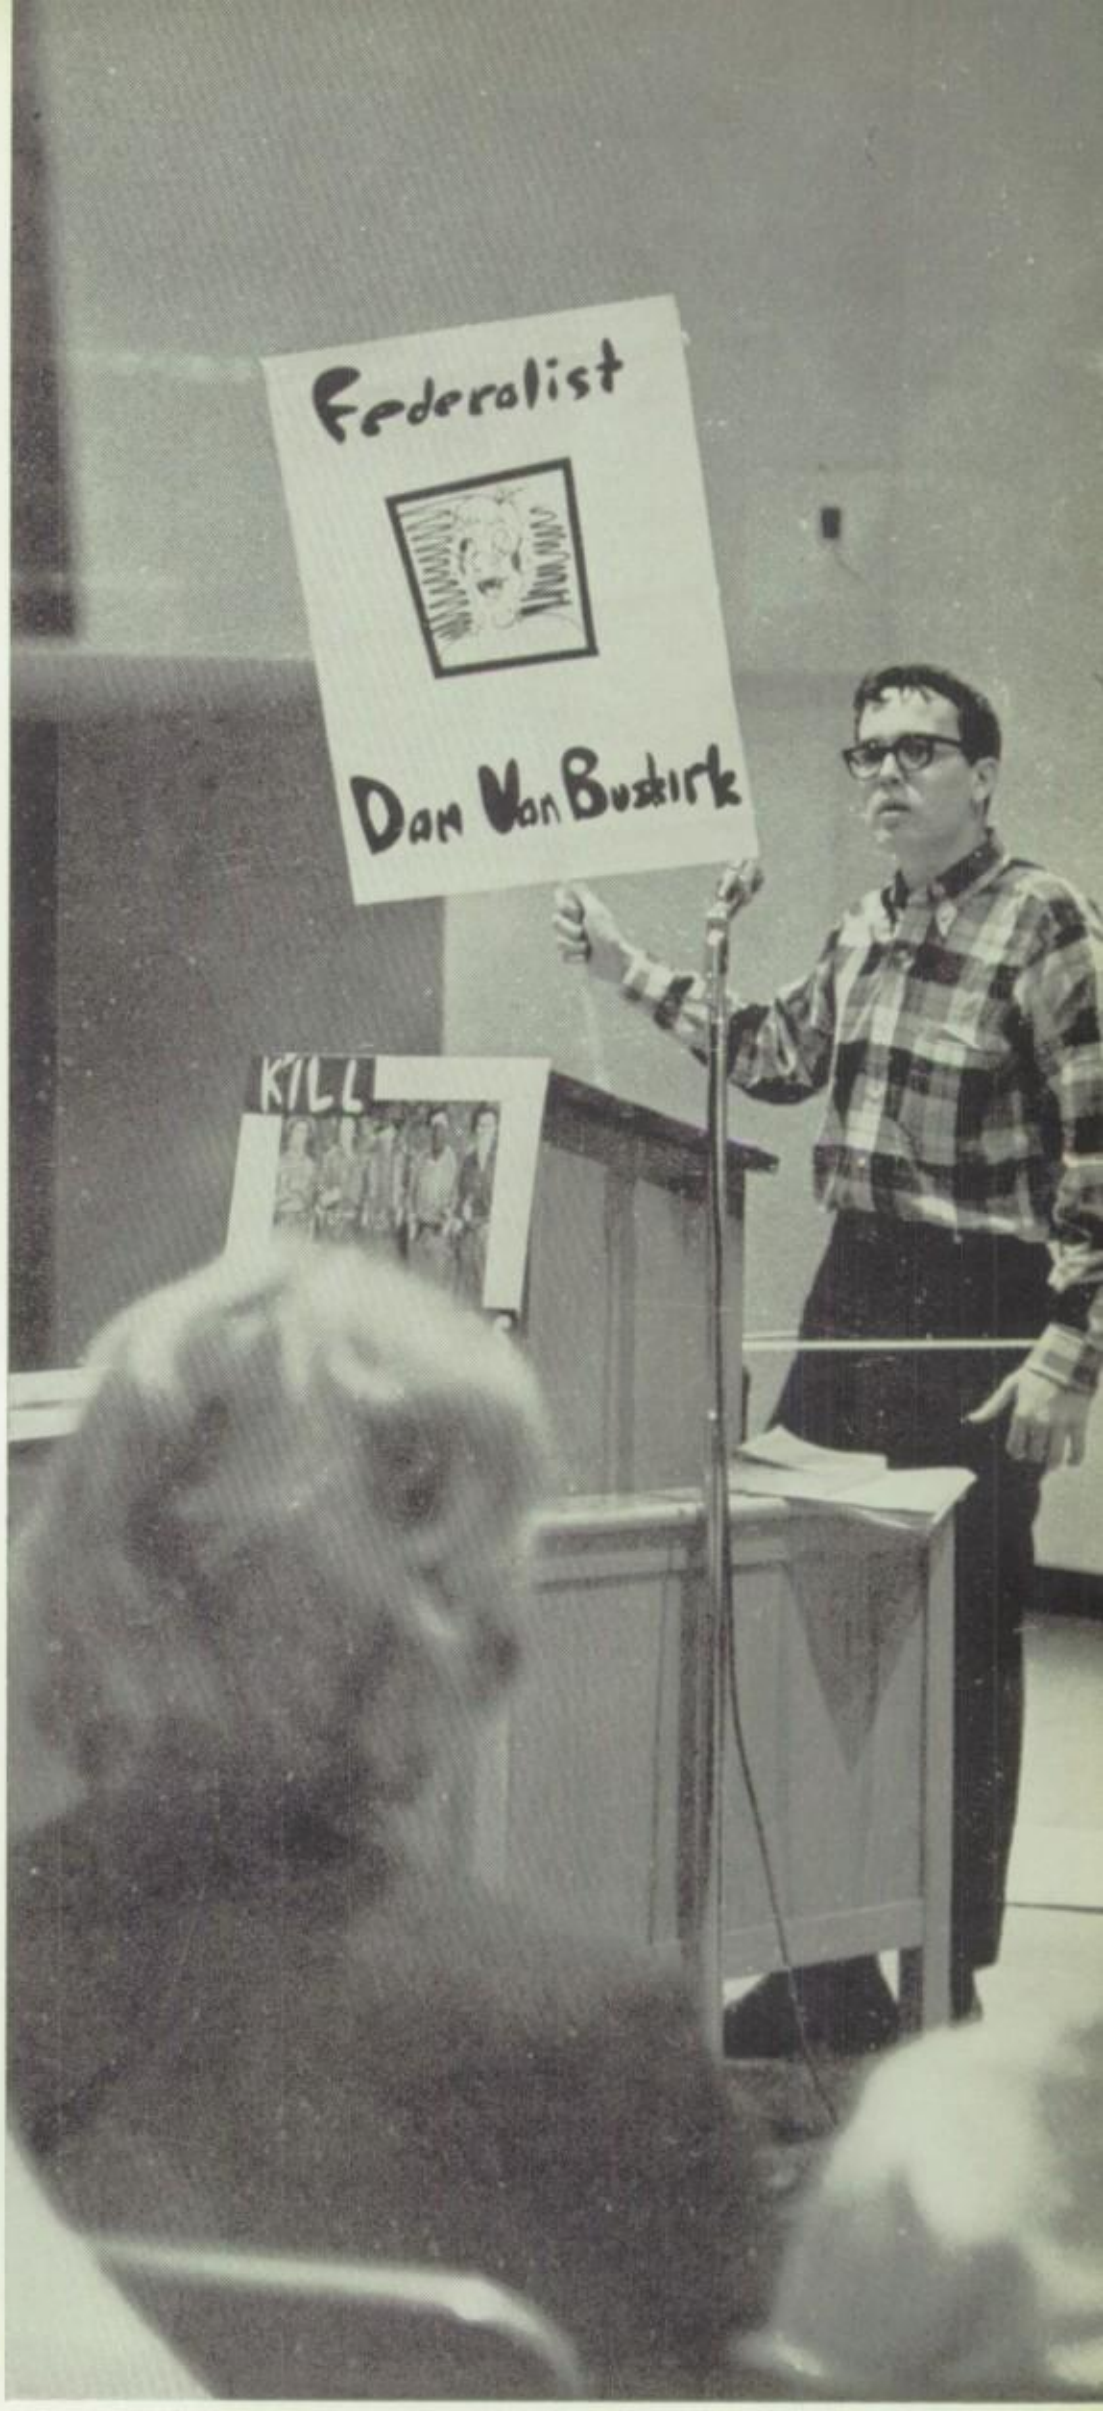
Twenty qualified teachers guide students in an assortment of challenging courses. The pedagogues instruct the learning historian in the history of America and our world, in basic psychology, in the laws of economics, and in topography. Latin American civilization studies the ancient Indian civilizations and today's world relations.

Students highlight their government and economics classes with the mock election unit. Engaged in "steamed-up" campaigning for either the Nationalist or Federalist candidates, they gain the practical experience of voting.

Linking students and their environment, Arlington's Social Studies Department helps Knights achieve world-wide knowledge and interpret world situations with an eye for improvement.

"Our tiring eyes read on through the dimlit pages of history until a light to tomorrow's problems shines through."

Pretend You're A Sailor! . . . Lecturing on geography in U. S. History, Ralph Bailey utilizes the department's maps.



Nat Narrator . . . Senior Hal Moore displays a campaign poster as he presents the key note address for the Nationalists.

Mathematics Acts to 'Trig'ger Inquisitive Minds

Now, Isn't That Simple? . . . Miss Helen Pearson, head of the Math Department, figures an algebraic equation for freshman Mark Jones.

"Seeking to relate ourselves to today's complex world, we find the language of numbers essential in expressing our thoughts and ideas."

Rising from the basic foundation set by algebra and geometry, Arlington's mathematics students build their knowledge of numbers into a working and practical application in today's intricate world. Diversifing courses range from general math to calculus and analytic geometry. Trigonometry, college algebra, and solid geometry also help vary the curriculum of students planning a career in math.

With noses to the grindstone and eyes to the future, student proficiency in math increases. The aid of a well-trained and experienced staff of teachers as well as modern school facilities help students find an excursion into the world of circles, formulas, and graphs a very stimulating experience.

"We study the many intriguing facets of math, realizing the part we may play in the future of space, science, and computers."

Slide Slaves . . . Senior Bill Cottrell relies on the Science Department's "giant-size" slide rule for his computations while junior Lee Atkinson checks his own in trigonometry class.

A Into B and X Crossed Over . . . Sophomore Dana Winn, concentrating on a "toy" computer, completes an assignment which increases his knowledge of Algebra III, a course which reviews in depth the basic math classes.

A Radius Of Two Inches . . . Sophomore Rick Beattey uses a compass and skills he has learned in geometry to complete an assignment.

Typing Trials . . . Pounding away on a business ed typewriter, sophomore Jim Moore strives for accuracy and speed as he completes an assignment in typing class. Emphasis on posture and technique characterizes the course.

From Typists to Clerks,

And THIS Picture . . . Teaching class by means of an overhead projector, Miss Jean Uesseler, business education instructor, demonstrates the mechanics of business with pictures in the Science Lecture Room.

"We, the typists, clerks, secretaries, business leaders, and students scan our worn-out books as we look beyond graduation."

Expanding by leaps and bounds, the business department makes use of eight new rooms this year. Coping with broken lead, worn down erasers, and ticking clocks, seniors type and take dictation in the accelerated secretarial class. Pen and paper are the only tools needed for stenography.

Buzzing buttons and flashing switches indicate the age of automation. In data processing, students learn the newest and foremost techniques available. General business also offers a spectrum of everyday incidental knowledge and needed experience.

"Striving perfectionists, we walk down the hallowed halls after graduation to find gratification in learning to cope with the business world."

fgf jhj . . . Jenny Adams and fellow senior Sheri Teagarden learn that drill leads to faster, more accurate typing.

Business 'Brains' Prepare for Tomorrow's Jobs

Keep It Short . . . Mrs. Janet Weaver, shorthand instructor, dictates to senior Linda Marshall, a teaching technique which increases speed.

Sales Speil . . . Sophomore Duke Gibbons applies the techniques gained in salesmanship class to student-buyers.

Artists Appraisal . . . Critically looking over his work, senior Jim Lentz adjusts his self-portrait hanging among other paintings in his one-man show in the art corridor.

Creatively,

Tender Care . . . Craft arts students Larry Murphy, Fred Wyant, Bonnie Newman, Mike Witacker, Pam Strauss, Dick Hindman, Don Boyd, and Tom Beall work with teacher John Emery (center).

Artistic Fingers Fashion Abstract, Realistic Forms

"In search of creative beauty, we explore the vast realm of art from design to oil painting to art history, with the use of modern facilities."

Trades of an artist are represented not only by palettes, brushes, and drawing boards, but by the traces of chalk, of clay, and of ink that stain fingers, blacken nails, and permeate clothing.

The department donates its skills and talents to the school in the forms of hall and showcase displays, posters, and periodical exhibits – proving that the joy of creating is the joy of giving.

Passing seasons as well as changing moods and new interests provide subjects for creative expressions of newly-acquired insight and techniques.

"When our skillful execution of this technique becomes part of the joy of our work, we find that we have learned to enjoy and to create beauty."

Noel . . . Seniors Pat Hartwig, Lynn Keener, and Sarah Harper display original Christmas cards, made by art students.

Stay Still . . . Arranging objects artistically, junior Julie Yager sets up a still life display for her art class.

Thanksgiving Gathering . . . Honoring the special season, the Concert Choir presented a musical program during an all-school pep session which also lauded the basketball and wrestling teams.

Instrumentalists Score

Concentrated Chord . . . Studying a difficult piece, sophomore Portia Heller tunes in with the orchestra.

"We wince as we strike a sour note but this note flows until we become completely engrossed in the thrilling sound of music that we create."

Under the direction of Miss Priscilla Smith and Gerald Knipfel, Arlington's instrumental groups, including Marching Band, Concert Band, Pep Band, Concert Orchestra, and String Ensemble, as well as vocal groups including the Arlingtones, Concert Choir, and Trebleaires, directed by Ralph Horine, perform throughout the year. In addition to entertaining their classmates, the musicians present various programs for the community, aiding in ceremonies for holidays and other special occasions.

Laurels have been brought home to Arlington by our musicians' outstanding performances at contests and concerts. This year's all-school play, "Music Man," testifies to the skill and diligence of the members of the music department.

"As we pack away our instruments and rest our throats after a practice session, we realize that we augment our musical achievement."

"But Marian" . . . Juniors Lana Ferrell and Bob Miller rehearse for "Music Man."

"A-1" . . . Drums and marching feet characterize a typical Marching Band practice session under the leadership of Drum Major Bill Crawford.

Musical, Marching Laurels As Singers Serenade

Tuning a Timpani . . . As last minute preparations for the Concert Band's "Gone With the Woodwinds" wind up, sophomore Dave Worsham checks his instrument.

Heart Tree? . . . Home Ec students Sandra Green, senior, and Sandra Denman, freshman, complete a centerpiece of hearts.

Decorating Dreams . . . Planning room arrangements, seniors Gwyn Trumbo and Linda Kincaid study interior decorating.

Flavoring School Life,

"The whirr of sewing machines is music to our ears and the aroma of cooking food is perfume to us as we change homey tasks into works of art."

Clothing classes in the Home Economics Department produce simple cotton garments and tailored suits. The girls' work climaxes with the Spring Fashion Show.

The preparation of meals constitutes food classes. The delicious odors arising from the first floor testify to the work being accomplished.

Another course offered by the Home Economics Department is family living. Knights study family life, personality development, and preparation for marriage.

An essential for any girl aspiring to be a nurse is the home nursing and childcare course. Nurse's aids chosen from this class help in the clinic.

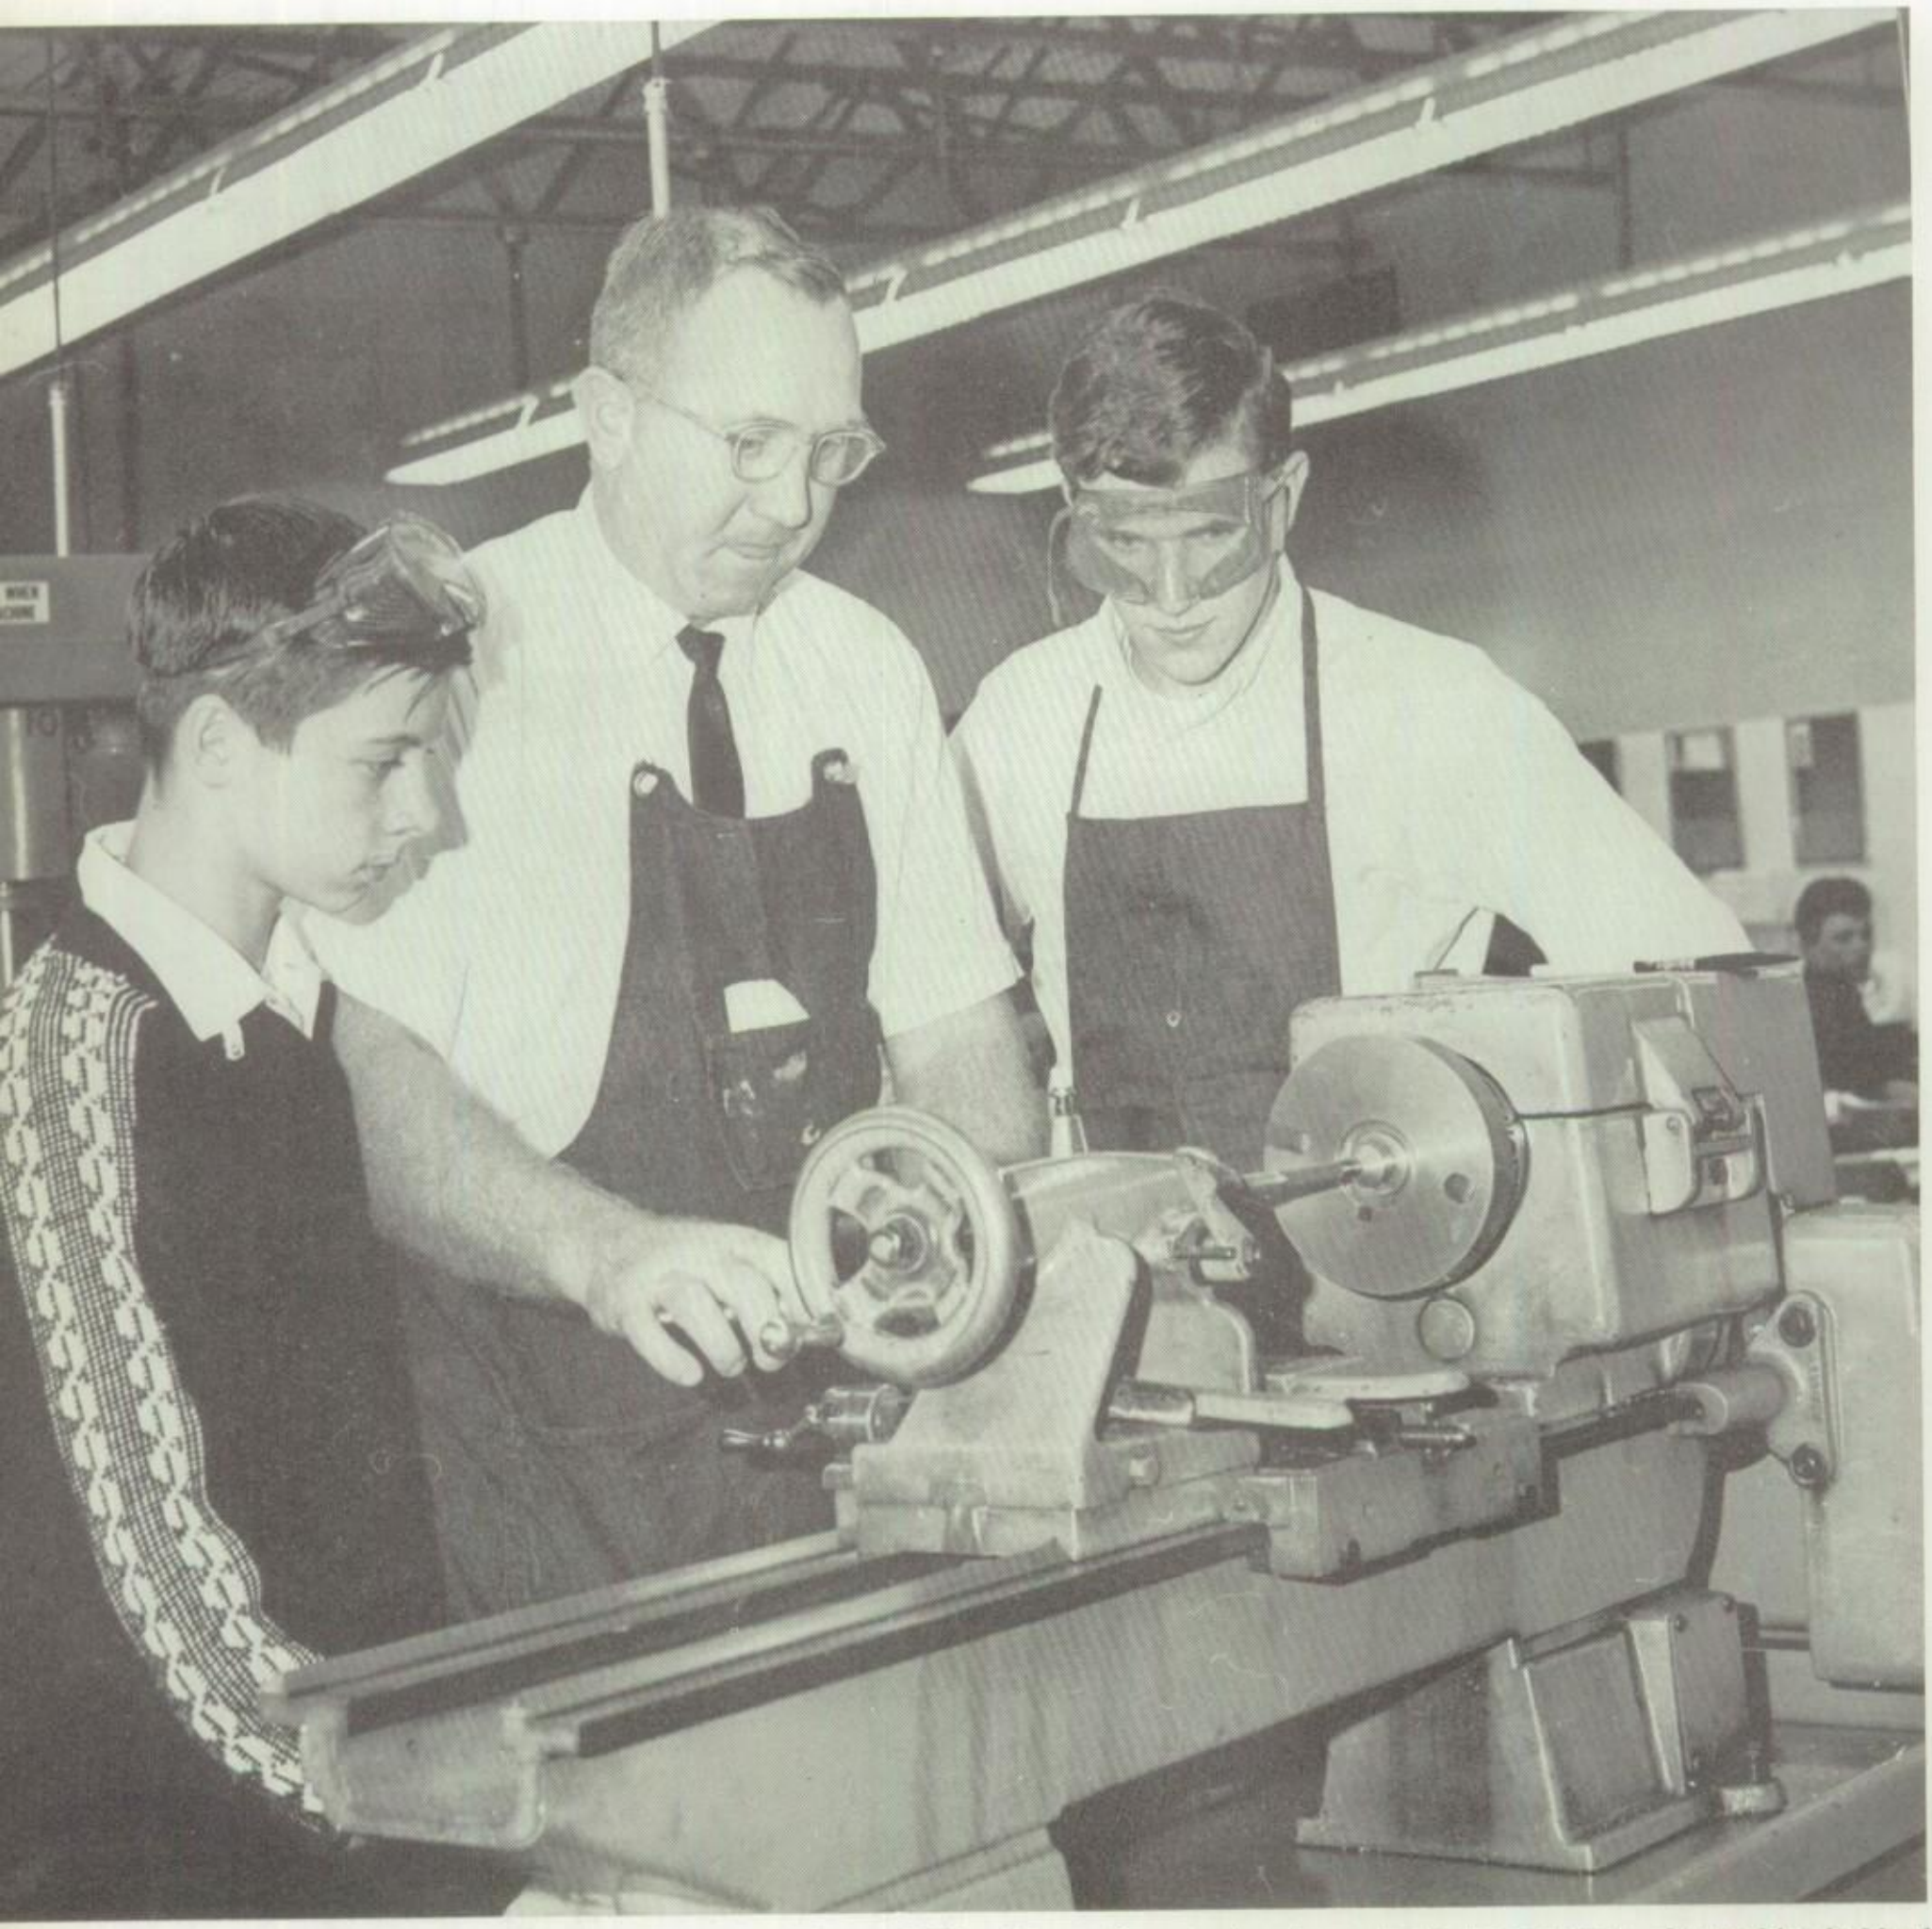
"As we study nutrition, management, and childcare, we think ahead to the days in the future when we, as mature adults, will use these skills."

You Missed A Place . . . Junior Norma Merkley instructs sophomore Dottie Jarvis on the use of the tracing wheel as the girls begin a clothing project for their home economics class.

Home Ec Majors Add a Touch of Color, Skill

But She's Got My Ring! . . . Discussing going steady, Joan Byers, Diane Coyle, Peggy Preston, Larry Hiner, Dave Stewart, and Jack Dickey talk as a panel in Mrs. Marjorie Christy's family living class.

From Metal Labs to Graphic Arts, Handymen



"This Is How It Works" . . . Wilbur Meyer, Shop teacher, demonstrates the mechanics of a machine in Metal Lab to Robert Dowden and Ronnie Drew as the boys gain skill in manufacturing products.

Yield Quality Products

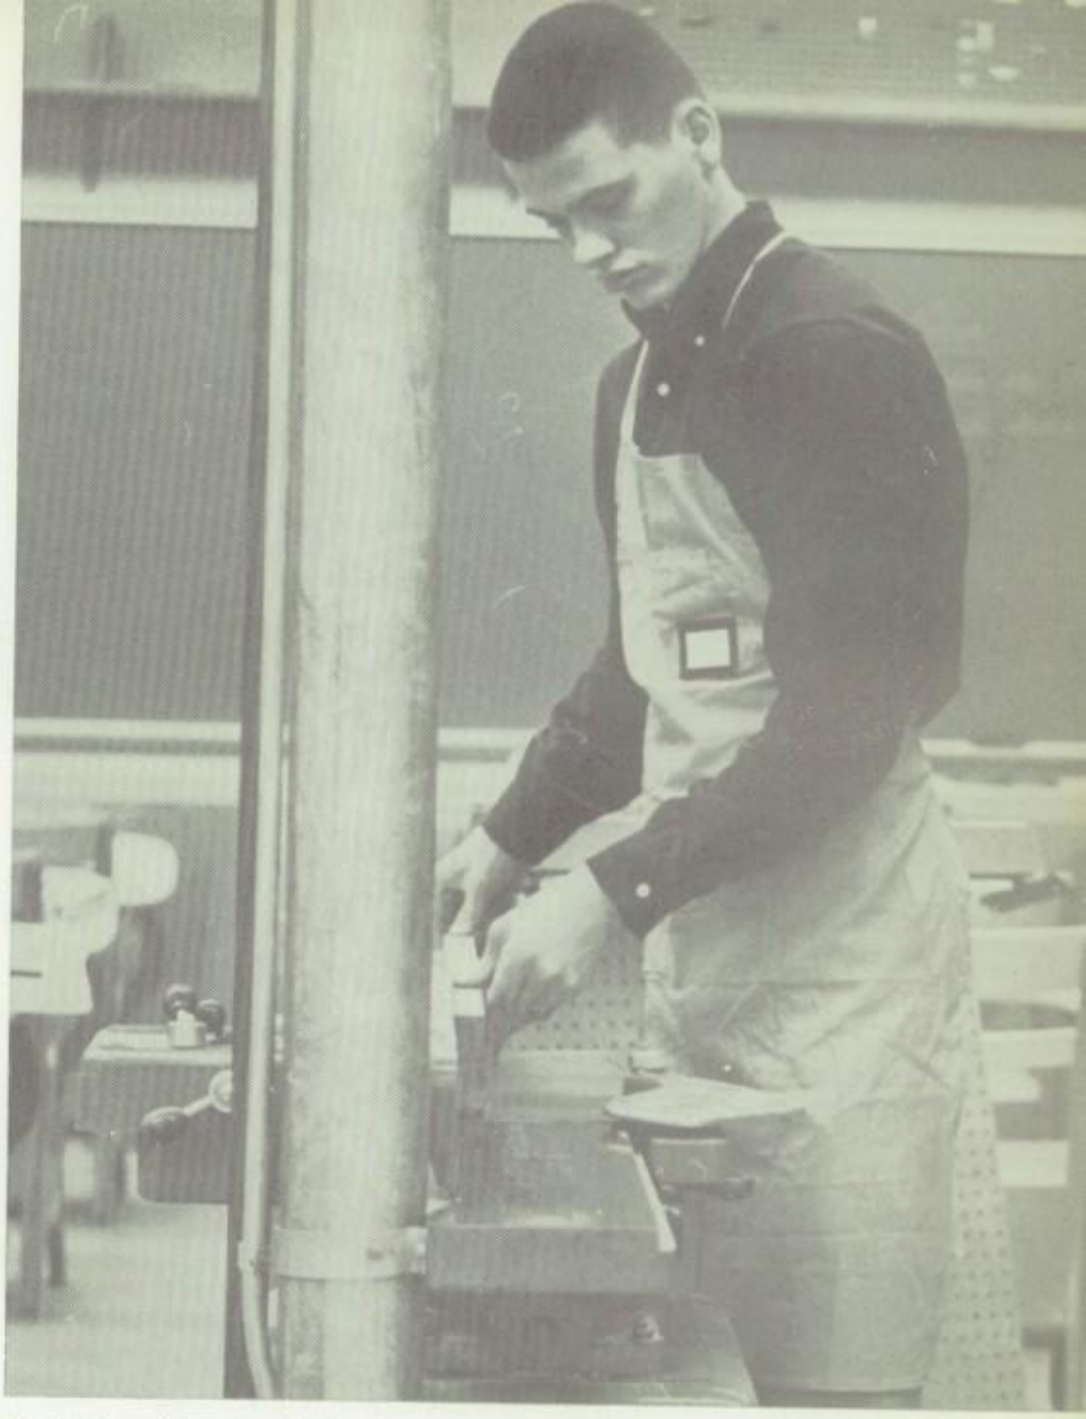
"We saw, hammer, and drill in our industrial classes, soldering our futures in the trades we may be pursuing for our careers."

Training the individual to be constructive with his talents, the Industrial Arts Department offers courses in wood lab, metal lab, and electrical lab in addition to drafting, mechanical arts, and graphic arts. Experienced instructors teach class with the latest innovations in machinery.

Industrial arts courses challenge both the student who is thinking of future trades and the student who is college-bound. Boys find it possible to become better acquainted with the fields which may mold their future in the industrial world. Arranging a display in front of the library this year, the students showed their original furniture.

Boys interested in the basic industrial arts studies specialize in the fields of electrical wiring, sanding, varnishing, and welding. Soldering, reveting, and tempering are also open to students interested in the fundamentals of industrial skills.

"With our teacher observing the skills over our shoulders, we strive for workmanship as we develop the products of our hands."



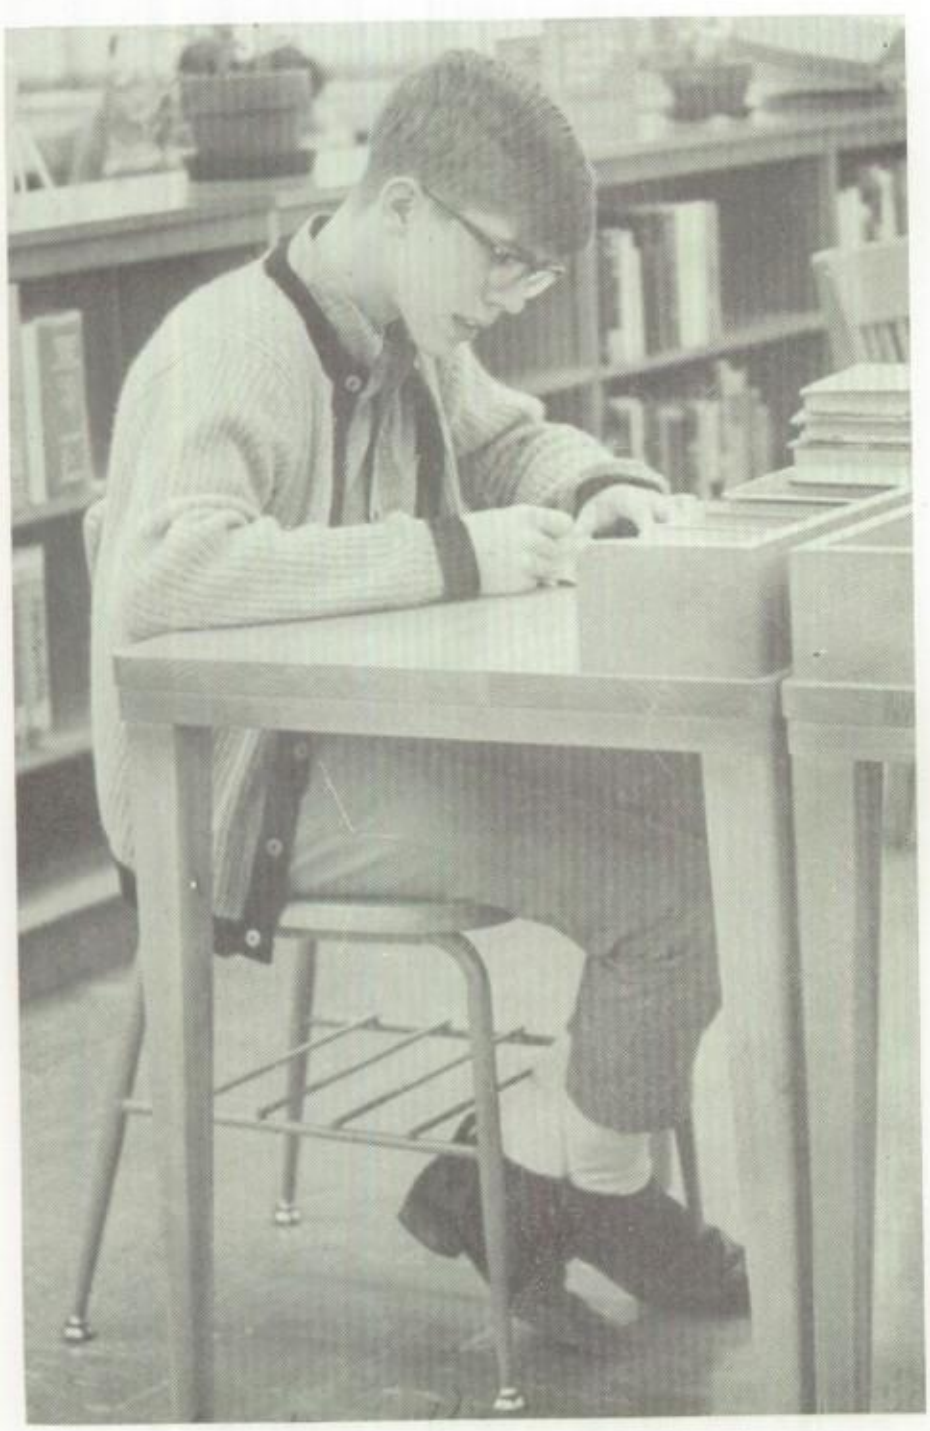
Production Line . . . Junior Dave Horner puts the finishing touches on his original project in wood lab.

Sketching A Masterpiece . . . Planning a diagram for a home, seniors Ron Causey and John Hillier labor over their drawing boards in architectural drawing as they complete a shop assignment.

Book Borrowers . . . Freshmen Janet Williams, Howard Hubler, and Judi Resser search the card catalogue in the library.

Day By Day . . . Arranging the bulletin board in the main lobby, senior Alice Jordy and junior Jackie Coffey post news.

Applying ABC's to Book-Lined Walls, Squires



"We find the wonders of the world, of new ideas and far-away places, as well as the wonders of the heavens above, in the Arlington library."

A quiet place of study for interested students, the library also provides the books and other materials for that needed research paper or that especially difficult homework assignment.

With the new library annex, students find more space with individual study tables. Folding doors may be used to divide the annex into two rooms. Students and faculty welcome the new shelves with room for 5,000 books and magazines. The annex also houses pupils in honor study halls.

Initiating a Book Fair, the librarians sold paperback books to students in English classes. Fiction, non-fiction, and biographies were sold.

"Teen-age minds, which develop by leaps and bounds into maturity, are molded during the high school years by the strength of the library."

Library Laborer . . . Catching up on homework, freshman Tom Jackson takes advantage of the books, pamphlets, and reference materials which constitute the school's library.

Busy, Busy, Busy . . . In a flurry of activity at the check-out desk, Alice Jordy and Jackie Coffey check in books which have been returned to the library while Nancy Hurst checks out books for Joan Spoo and Julie Hagar.

Shelve, Stamp Volumes

Come To The Fair . . . Senior Paul Hornbeck discusses a book with Mrs. Sandra Cohen, English teacher, during the Book Fair as junior Linda Pence and senior Cynthia Miller look through other novels and biographies.

Some Diet . . . Sophomores Connie Crapple and Jim Miller study the skeletal system on a real model.

Look Out For The Curb! . . . Future drivers find all actual conditions simulated in a driver's education trailer.

From Health to Driving,

"Health and driver's education are valuable courses which train us to do the correct thing at the necessary and proper time."

Driver's education teaches students how to operate and control automobiles correctly. With practice they try to perfect their faults and mistakes under the supervision of their instructor. Learning the parts of the car and how they function is an important lesson achieved. Getting the "feel of the wheel" is experience gained only by operating and driving the dual-controlled automobile.

In the classroom, Knights learn the rules and regulations of the road—safety and courtesy—and the basic fundamentals of driving.

Health students acquire knowledge of brains, bones, and bodies as they study the complex workings of the human body and how to keep it physically and mentally fit. As a required course for all students, a new feature has been added; each student must have a complete physical and dental check-up during the semester course. This is being done in order to maintain healthy individuals.

"We learn to understand and accept duties as we condition our minds and bodies to respond to life's everyday situations."

"Got It" . . . Physical education teacher, Miss Jane Vogt, watches juniors Datha Wood and Linda Ledgerwood leap into the air in the struggle to get the tip.

"I Think I Can" . . . Straining every muscle, freshman John Colbert practices chin-ups in his phys ed class.

Racqueteers Net Set . . . Juniors Paula Knebel and Janet Liston shake hands after a GAA intramural match.

Students Gear Lives to Fitness of Mind, Body

"Not That Much" . . . Coach Lyman Combs weighs in Rita Hurley as Coach Marion Burleson and Roxy Henshaw look on.

"We improve our mental and physical well-being by active participation in our gym classes from football and tennis to ladders and spring boards."

Arlington's physical education system has spread to cover almost all physical education activities so that every student may participate in a sport in which he desires to improve his ability.

In the freshman year, physical education is mandatory. Activities for the active teens include ball games, rope climbing, and tumbling as well as daily exercises. Girls in physical education also practice their dancing skills with records.

This year the Physical Education Department created a new system of putting scores in achievement cards. This will help students to improve and to know what grades they earn progressively.

If physical education teaching appeals to a student, he may apply as a physical education assistant. Gym teachers choose students to be assistants on the basis of ability in physical education, in leadership, and in grades. The valuable training they receive prepares them for a future in physical education.

"Exertion in physical education not only strengthens the individual but broadens the entire school in creating a well-rounded curriculum."

The President Speaks . . . Student Council President Bud Kisselman calls the opening assembly of the 1964 Indiana State Student Council Convention to order. As president of the host Council, Kisselman is also president of the Indiana State Student Council for the 1964-1965 school year.

Leads School Activities

Striving for a more united Arlington, Student Council members lead all Golden Knights by their interest and vital knowledge of the students whom they represent. Chosen at the end of the previous school year, homeroom representatives voice the views of their classmates during bi-weekly Council meetings. One representative from each class is elected for the Council Cabinet which consists of Council officers and the four elected members.

Helping to complete a more responsive program this year, Student Council co-sponsors Mrs. Belgen Wells, Dean of Girls, and John Morris, Social Studies Department head, advise members on Council projects such as choosing "Student Leader of the Week" and organizing the annual "Cy and Cindy" turnabout dance.

Hosting the Indiana Student Council Convention in the fall proved to be the biggest project sponsored by the Council this year. More than fifteen hundred Student Council representatives gathered at Arlingotn to share ideas and propose new methods of effective student government.

Inducting New Members, Honoraries Sponsor

Academic Achievers . . . Members of National Honor Society are (front row) Lyn Keener, Bev Hall, Cynthia Miller, Wanda Knoll, Kathi Meek, Karen Thomsen, Paula Sanders, Nancy Shake, Marlene Pruitt, Pat O'Banyel, Nickie Fleener, Janet Shumway, Doreen Atkinson, Sharon Ritter, Ida Bynagle, Jean Kalp, Alice Surface, Carol Hopper, Janice Holly, Sharon Good, Kay Gill, Linda Ryba, Vicki Smith, Sarah Harper, Winkle Sue Williams; (second row) Mrs. Janet Weaver—co-sponsor, Sue Carder, Sheila Sullivan, Shirley Spiegel, Linda Hamilton, Ginny Major, Janice Brown, Steve Jones, Ken Weiss, Gene Hager, Laura Vawter, Theda Mason, Karen Copeland, Susie Pohland, Carol Miller, Charlene Mitchell, Tom Jones, Ann Stutsman, Bobbi Wilson, Carol Cavey, Robert Gwyn- co-sponsor; (third row) Doug Schmidt, Julie Bowen, Mike Place, Jim Sellers, Marvin Bailey, Phil Dragoo, Linda Miller, Steve Waller, Judy Craig, Sharon O'Rear, Charles Lunsford, Dave Poole, Jon Rice, David Wild, John Rafferty, Paul Hornbeck, Kathy Boyd, Ron Bennett, Jack Clarke, Jim Lentz; (fourth row) Sharon Edwards, Steve Dickhaus, Mike Blackburn, Bill Crawford, Mike Neal, Bud Kisselman, Janie Beck, Jayme Sickert, JoAnn Cradick, John Rader, Rick Musser, Bob Loveman, Dave Hoecker, Dave Fralish, Steve Earnest, John Fike, Jeff Wilson, Roger Zody, Chuck Waggoner, Mike Brodsky, Jon Peterson, Jim Collins. Honor Society members not pictured are: Doris Cass, Patty Willetts, Nancy Bruns, Barbara Biggs, and Debbie Jones.

Academically achieving their goals of excellence, members of the Arlington chapter of National Honor Society strive to maintain the standards upon which they are accepted. The basic prerequisite for Honor Society membership is an accumulative 6.0 grade average. Other qualifications are based in leadership, character, and service as well as teacher recommendations. The symbols of Honor Society—the keystone for stable judgment and the torch for lifetime guidance—help to carry the honorary prestige of Honor Society throughout the years in the lives of its members.

LANCER and ACCOLADE staffers with "journalistic flairs" may become members in Quill and Scroll, the national journalism honorary for high school students. Initiating a first in Marion County high school journalism, Arlington's Quill and Scroll chapter sponsored the first annual Marion County Quill and Scroll Press Day. Student journalists gathered at Arlington for a day which included writing contests, workshops, and informal panel discussions. Climaxing Press Day was the announcement of contest winners, selected by professionals in the individual fields connected with journalism.

Press Day, Fall Dance

Easy On The Pancake . . . Esther Rusthoven and Kit Field prepare Pete Paulin for his role as "Major Metcalf," suspicious good guy, in the all-school comedy "Mousetrap" presented in the school auditorium.

Who's The Bait . . . Kay Henry, Ron Hugar, and Don Payne run through a scene from the 1964 all-school play "Mousetrap." Rehearsing every evening after school, the thespians memorize lines and learn stage presence as they follow the directions of Mrs. Daveda Wyatt, production's head.

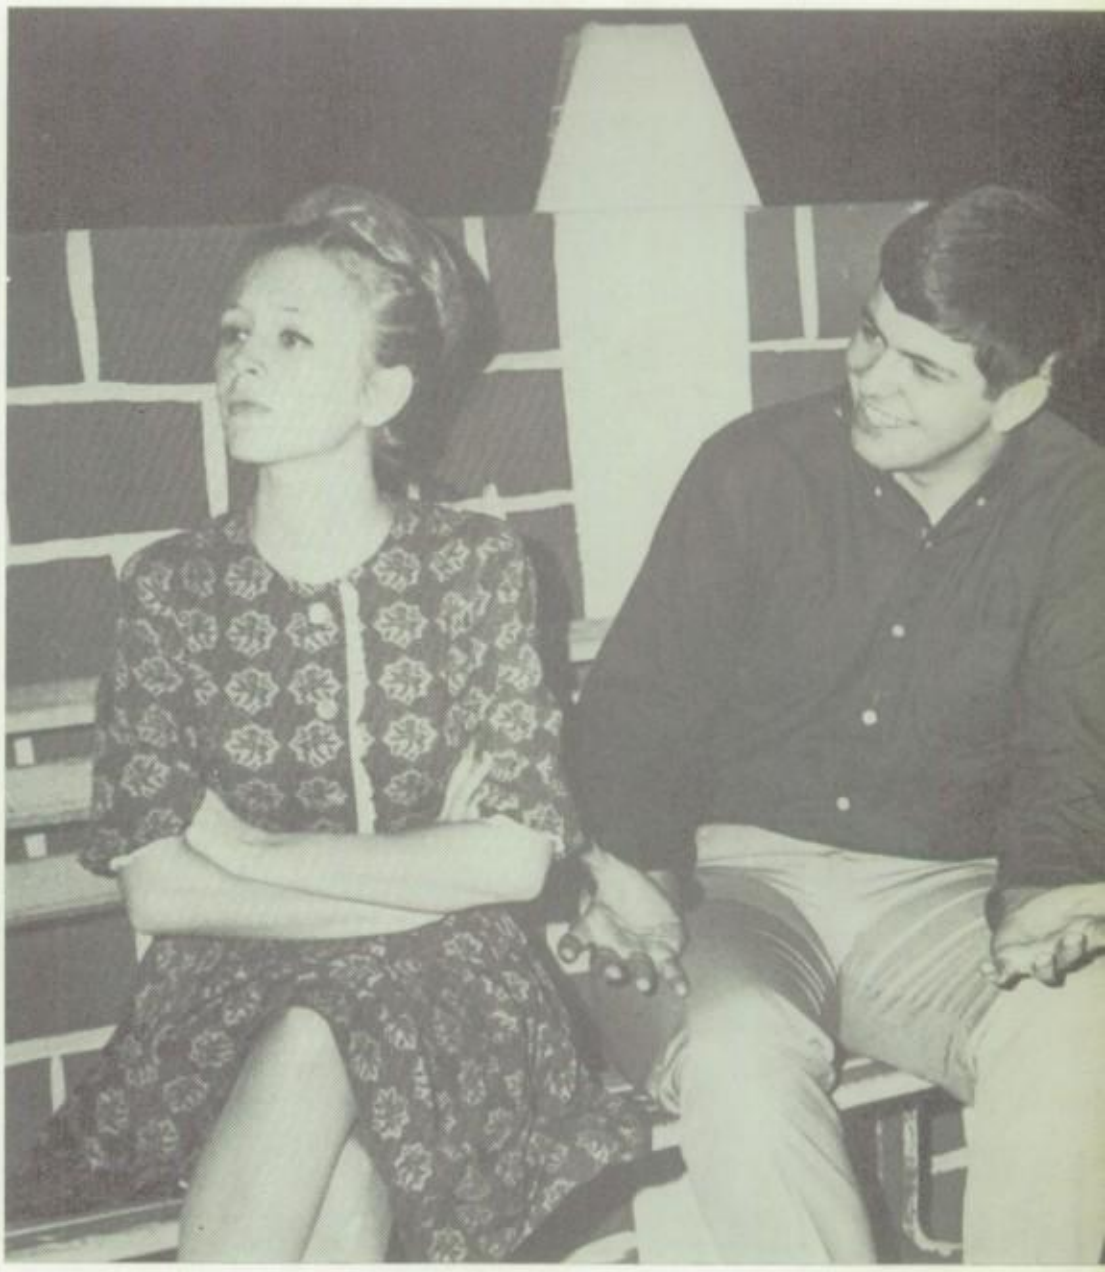
Amateur Actors Add Life to Artistic Atmosphere

National Thespians undertook the responsibility for another Arlington first—the production of the all-school musical, "The Music Man." Thespians worked "behind-the-scenes" with sets, costumes, and makeup while simultaneously memorizing the scripts for their roles in the presentation.

Eligibility for membership in National Thespians, a national honorary for student dramatists, is based on points accumulated through public speaking or participation in school productions. Other efforts of National Thespians include participating in the autumn all-school play, "Mousetrap," the senior-sponsored "Take Her, She's Mine," and the all-Thespian production of "The Crucible."

The National Thespian organization is devoted to the advancement of drama. Its goals are to encourage students to further develop the art of speaking and to utilize their dramatic talents.



"Look At It My Way" . . . Seniors Patti Hurst and Ric Snow have a slight disagreement in a scene from the 1965 class play by Phoebe and Henry Ephron.

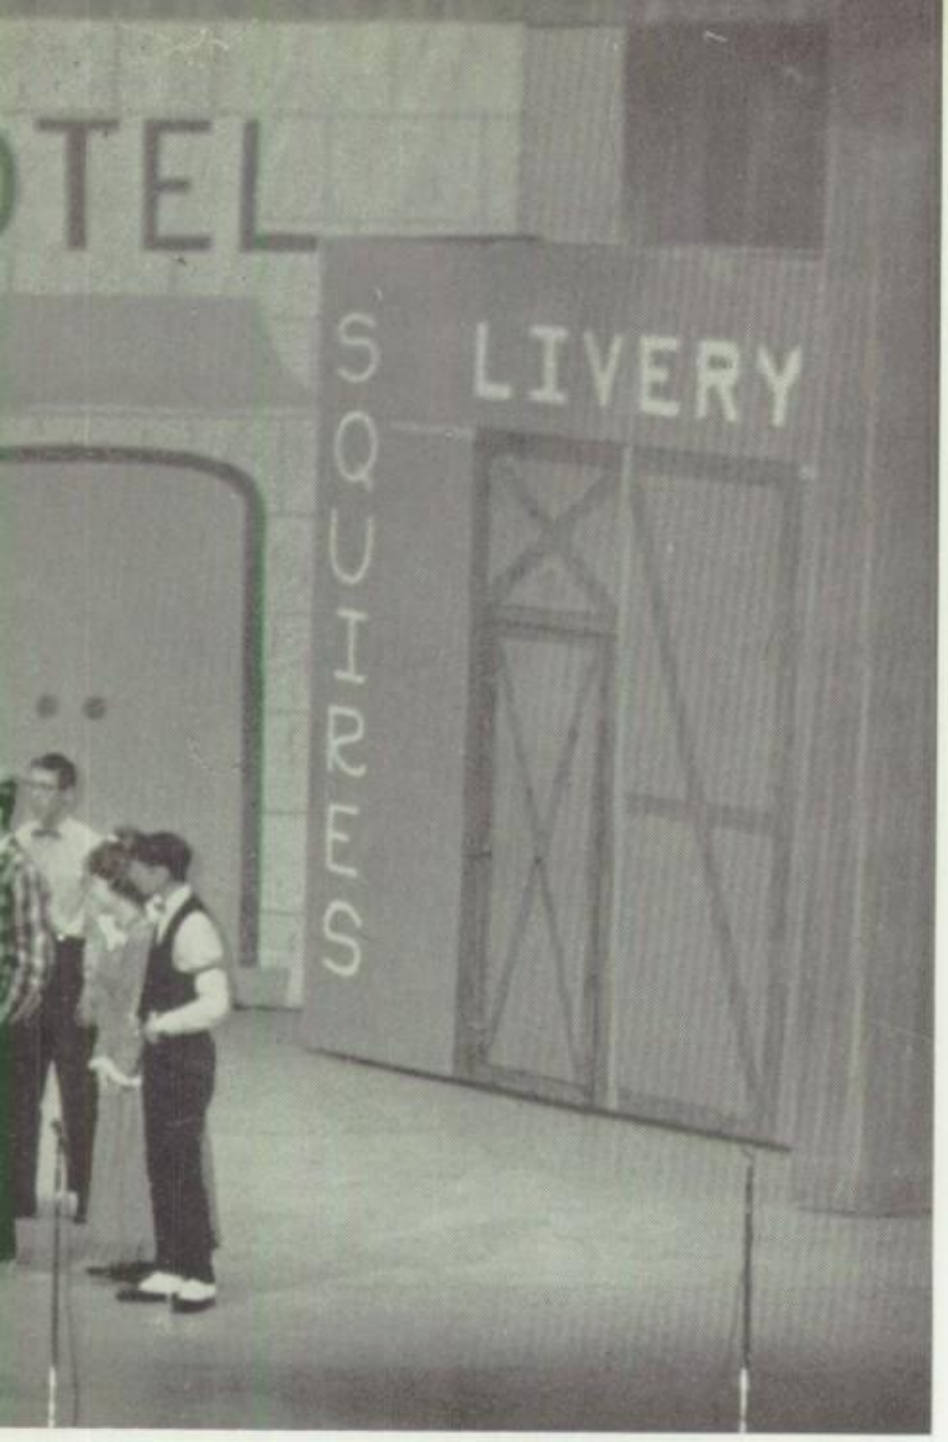
Gary, Indiana . . . Winthrop (Patti Hurst) lisps of "his" admiration for "Home Sweet Home" for Lana Ferrell and Kit Field.

Wait Just A Minute . . . Stopping the Mayor (Hal Moore), the Professor takes over the podium before he takes over the town.



Townsfolk listen eagerly as the Professor describes the trouble which will occur if his plans are not followed.

The moment that over one hundred and fifty students combine their strange and assorted talents, something spectacular is destined to happen.

By co-ordinating their skills, the music and dramatic departments produced Arlington's first musical, "The Music Man." The Concert Choir and Orchestra provided the music necessary to bring the famous "River City, Iowa" to the school scene. Drama enthusiasts provided instruction for the acting phase of the musical production.

Throughout the long, tiring hours of afternoon and evening rehearsals, fun and excitement accompanied the enthusiasm of the students involved in the presentation. "The Music Man" was presented in two performances receiving overwhelming approval from both audiences. Encouraged by the success of "The Music Man," talented Knights are likely to stay "musically minded."

Capturing the spotlight, juniors Lana Ferrell and Bob Miller fascinated the audiences with their superb singing abilities in the leading roles.

Debaters, Orators, Quiz Kids Unveil Knowledge

Adding another honorary organization to the Arlington realm, the National Forensic League exists for the interest of student orators. Eligibility in this national organization is determined by student accumulative points. Points are awarded on the basis of service projects and individual placement in county solo speech tournaments. The National Forensic Association Tournament is open to all N.F.L. members at the sectional level.

Seeking to develop their abilities to analyze accurately, to formulate quickly, and to organize fully, many self-confident and perseverant students participate in debate. Although the ability to speak well is helpful in presentation of a case, the most important asset in debate is the ability to reason logically and quickly. Debating experience serves as background for all careers. It is essential in fields such as politics and law.

Bi-weekly sessions of the Debate Team provide ample time for team members to discuss the strategy to be employed in upcoming debates. This organization also offers beginners the opportunity to learn the effective techniques and procedures of debate.

Under the supervision of William Hering, varsity and sub-varsity debaters participated in nearly one hundred and fifty competitive debates. During the season the varsity team intermittently held the top standing in Marion County.

Regarded school-wide as the "quiz kids," members of the Arlington quiz team competed among themselves for selection to appear on WLW-I's "battling of the brains"—"Exercise in Knowledge." Challenged by department heads who submitted thought-provoking questions, quiz team members Sharon Edwards, Rick Musser, David Wild, and Jonathan Beard demonstrated their ability to think quickly under pressure as they participated in a "Quiz Team" convocation.

In Competitive Meets

If We Do It This Way . . . Seniors Bryan Ribbens and Chuck Wagoner plan their strategy before a Marion County debate meet.

Battling Brains . . . Moderator Phil Dragoo questions "Quiz kids" Jonathan Beard, Sharon Edwards, Rick Musser, and Jim Collins in preparation for WLW-I's "Exercise in Knowledge."

Development . . . ACCOLADE photographer John Hillery takes a peek as he develops one of the hundreds of pictures printed yearly in the publications darkroom.

Sticky Fingers . . . Senior ACCOLADE staffers Wanda Knoll and Shirley Spiegel use the "glue-pot" to paste faculty pictures.

Recording Knight Year,

Preserving the relationship between word and picture, the yearbook highlights the spirit and accomplishments of the school year. Planning and publishing the 1965 ACCOLADE, 33 staffers devote extra hours to completing 224 pages of Arlington life.

The staff and its adviser, Miss Mary Benedict, share the responsibility for the entire annual production. Writing, editing, photography, proofreading, ads, and business management are all essential phases of ACCOLADE activity. Staffers apply for editorial positions at the end of the previous school year and begin serious planning during the summer as they attend yearbook institutes at Indiana University and Michigan State University.

In the fall all staff members work as an efficient team to raise money necessary for the commercial printing of the ACCOLADE. In addition to selling subscriptions through homeroom representatives, the staff sells advertising and sponsors school activities including the annual talent show, "Knight Train to Talent." Underclass picture sales also boost the yearbook budget.

As a result, a phase of Arlington's history is recorded in the ACCOLADE—1965.

Accolade Staff Pastes, Pictures, Proportions

Proportional? . . . ACCOLADE co-editors Janet Shumway and Nickie Fleener check pictures for their "proportionability."

Does It Balance? . . . ACCOLADE business manager Ric Snow and advertising manager Susie Todd check the 1965 ACCOLADE ledger hoping to find a "balanced" budget.

Chorus Clowns . . . Arlington's answer to the Rockettes, Senior Boys In Review, become crowd favorites.

'Knight Train to Talent'

Knight Stars . . . Seniors Wanda Knoll, Gale; Steve Dickhaus, Knight Train conductor; and Bud Kisselman, Knight, relax backstage.

Banjo Ballad . . . Jim Karns and Don Larson harmonize to the folk song "Hard, Ain't It Hard."

All Aboard . . . "Playboys" Phil Owens and Bruce Ferguson, seniors; Mark Tribby, junior; and Gary Stafford, senior, open the show with a rousing rendition of "Knight Train" to the delight of teens in the audience.

"Or Would Youn Rather Be A Freshie?" . . . Senior girls—hillbilly style--give their answer in a new version of "Swinging On A Star."

Packages Music, Dance For Top Attendance

Packed with talent and powered by enthusiasm the "Knight Train To Talent" roared down the tracks to two whistle stops in the Arlington auditorium where it was greeted by crowds of over 2,700. Conductor Steve Dickhaus kept the train rolling smoothly.

From the staff introduction on the engine to the senior chorus line on the caboose, the train, crowded with twenty-one carloads of talent, chugged through the station. These passengers—whose talents ranged from dancing to singing to pantomiming—paid their fares by performing for everyone.

Tension mounted as Mr. Gwyn read the names of seniors Wanda Knoll and Bud Kisselman as Gale and Knight—the most typical Arlington students. The 1965 ACCOLADE subscribers chose this pair to reign over the "Knight Train To Talent."

The third annual talent show wound up the two-week 1965 ACCOLADE sales campaign.

Graceful Gymnast . . . Personifying balance, poise, and co-ordination, Carol Hutcherson pauses in her routine.

Proof News Scoops From Campus, Community

Providing communications between a young community and its school, the LANCER staff publishes a weekly newspaper for over three thousands Knights and maintains an active News Bureau.

After achieving an All-American rating from the National Scholastic Press Association, staff members copped four of the ten trophies awarded at the Quill and Scroll Marion County Press Day in December for newswriting, features, headlines, and ad design.

More than thirty reporters scan each department in the school weekly for up-to-date news while editors cope with deadlines, decisions, and "dummies." News, editorials, and feature stories constitute the four-page paper while photographs, processed in the publications darkroom, add special human interest.

Reporting for three metropolitan newspapers and seven local publications, the News Bureau staff creates the Arlington image within the community and surrounding areas. Working evenings and after school, the staff pounds out hundreds of inches of copy for these neighboring papers as well as for the LANCER.

Under the direction of Miss Mary Benedict, publications director, LANCER staffers gain a valuable insight to the journalistic world as they relate the Arlington story to Knights and to the community.

Mistake . . . LANCER staffer Bob Loveman points out a proofing error to editor Sharon Edwards.

Old Faithfuls . . . LANCER representatives are (front row) Mary Jean Homann, Laura Williams, Ginger Ward, Kandi Kleinhelter, Nancy Stephens, Barb Freund, Janis Gersone, Helen Hall, Linda Kincaid, Patty Rutan, JoAnne Waggoner, Marilyn Atkins, Terrie McLean, Kathy Merriman; (second row)Steve Martz, Don Goldmann, John Hampton, Liz Ellison, Janet Quakenbush, Connie Crapple, Shelley Nethery, Kathy Clark, Ros Zody, Sue Bates, Tom Beall, Jami Thixton, Debbie Kappus, Vicki Carter, JoNell English, Carol Page; (third row) Brenda Perry, Debby Curtis, Janet Liston, Geri Russell, Dianne Horstman, Suzy Sims, Liz Browning, Ellen Sullivan, Nancy Boyd, Bobbi Wilson, Janet Shumway, Cindy Neeley, Ruth Horn, Pat O'Banyel, Elaine Hunter, Terry Smith, Judy Shobe; (fourth row) Jane Klein, Barry Sawyer, Pam Fisher, David Ball, Dan Springer, Pat Hartwig, Margie McCawley, Susie Todd, Joan Wilson, Vickie Moody, Scott Ford, Bill Hartwig, Dick Hindman, Kay Corbin, Linda Milliser, Terrie Cartwright, Alan Atlas; (back row) Ralph O'Rear, Butch Bivens, Rich Reidy, Terry English, Linda West, Susann Watson, Rick Walls, Mike Cooper, Pam Mader, Gary Buchanan, Russ Bultman, Kit Field, Ginny Major, John Lepper, R. H. Kingery, Kay Bole, Sue Hartmann, Judy Morgan.

Homeroom Agents Promote Paper Subscriptions;

Right On Schedule . . . As LANCER representatives converge on the Journalism Office each Friday morning, Shirley Spiegel and Ric Snow hand out newspapers.

Buy! Buy! Buy! Promoting most school-sponsored activities, LANCER homeroom agents handle money, tickets, and newspapers by the dozens throughout the progressing year. Each Friday morning before homeroom period, the LANCER representatives come to Room 248, the Journalism Office, and pick up the newspapers which they distribute in their individual homerooms to all paying subscribers.

Starting the year off on a money note, the agents promote and sell subscriptions to the ACCOLADE and to the LANCER. Proving themselves to be blessed with salesmanship ability, the students sold a record 2750 yearbooks—the largest number of high school subscriptions in the state.

The homeroom representatives, elected each fall by members of their homerooms, also handle ballots for Knight and Gale candidates in connection with the yearbook-sponsored "Knight Train to Talent" and also aided the Music Department by promoting "Music Man."

Among the hardest working and the least recognized of Arlington's unsung heroes are the Business Managers. These six Knights, chosen by their sponsor, art teacher John Vardaman, for their skill and willingness to work, spend one to two periods daily doing the tasks that are taken for granted by most Arlingtonites but which are essential.

With the exception of athletic meets, tickets and programs for all school-sponsored events are the result of the labor of the Business Managers. This year they designed, printed, and sold tickets for "The Music Man," "Knight Train to Talent," the Letterman's Dance, and all other projects which add to a smoothly-run school life.

Backdrops for auditorium productions, stencils for the main office, and name tags for the State Student Council Convention and Quill and Scroll Press Day all display their handi-work.

Business Managers, JA'ers Learn Salesmanship

Frustration . . . Junior Achievement members Don Payne and Pat O'Banyel demonstrate "Frustration," the new game which is sold by their J.A. company.

High school students from the Indianapolis area are learning the procedures and experiencing the mounting problems of business as they combine their talents and skills in Junior Achievement companies.

Meeting at the Junior Achievement Center on either Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday evenings, J. A. members spend two hours weekly producing the products which they will eventually sell.

The Junior Achievers own, operate, and manage their small-scale companies under the guidance of professional adult advisers.

Highlighting the Achievement is the annual Junior Achievement Trade Fair. Each company rents space in the Manufacturer's Building of the State Fair Grounds to display their products in the most appealing way so as to attract visitors.

Distinguishing the Arlington members of Junior Achievement, Senior Ros Stovall was elected Mr. Junior Achievement of the 1965 Trade Fair. Students are eligible for membership in Junior Achievement during their junior and senior years.

Swinging Strings Sway with Sonatas, Concertos

Flutists . . . Carla Bishop and Leslie Winslow help to create the sparkling sounds of the "Music Man."

Rosining up bows and tuning tubas, the Concert Orchestra presents stage concerts and informal performances throughout the school year. Sixty-five instrumentalists compose the award-winning group which garnered 29 first-place medals in District Contest and 26 first-place medals in State Contest.

Substituting a fall concert with "Music Man," select members formed the pit orchestra which accompanied the singers for the show. Moving to the stage for the Christmas Concert, the orchestra and choir presented selections from Handel's "Messiah."

March kept the group busy as the Arlington orchestra hosted the State Orchestra which played before the Mid-West music teacher's convention. Members provided night lodging for the visitors and organized a get-acquainetd party in the cafeteria.

Light, swinging music made the Spring Concert agenda as the Concert Orchestra presented its final production of the year on the school stage. Traveling to neighborhood grade schools, the musicians played selections from the concert to the delight of the future Arlington instrumentalists.

'Half-timers' Parade Music, Marching Talents

One, Two, Three . . . Keeping time to the drums, marchers rehearse for a home football halftime early in the season.

A-1! Strutting down the football field eyeing their goal of perfection or marching in the annual "500 Festival Parade," the Marching Knights remain among the finest in the state.

A smaller, more select band this year, the high-stepping bandsmen begin their season early in August in preparation for the Butler Football Jamboree which officially opens the football season. The active marchers perform at all home football games and in downtown civic parades including the Veteran's Day and Christmas Parades. At the close of the marching season, the four outstanding marchers of the organization are chosen by band members; drum majors, senior Bill Crawford and junior Pat Reidy; and Director Gerald Knipfel. These prominent Knights were honored at the Fall Sports Awards Banquet along with football lettermen.

Twenty-four Goldenaires, five sparkling majorettes, and the drum majors are colorful attractions to the band. The 1964-65 Marching Knights presented precision half-time performances including arrangements from the "Beatles" and favorite hymns.

With Pompoms, Drums

Swishing yellow and white pompoms, the Goldenaires add beauty, spirit, and entertainment to basketball halftimes. Bright gold skirts and letter sweaters are worn by the all-girl drill team.

Original halftime shows are created by Mrs. Burdeen Schmidt, sponsor. Goldenaires, chosen by spring tryouts, practice only once a week for their upcoming performance. Grades must be maintained at the "C" level by the sophomores, juniors, and seniors who comprise the special group.

Sponsoring a sock hop early in the basketball season, the Goldenaires sold tickets for 25 cents and raised $250 for the athletic stadium. Arlingtonites danced after the Sacred Heart basketball game while WIFE disc jockey Joe Light spun the platters for a large crowd of appreciative students in the cafeteria.

Providing music for Goldenaires' halftime shows, the Pep Band performs at home basketball games with lively, hand-clapping numbers. A blaring fanfare followed by an upbeat melody boosts crowd spirit before and in-between halves.

Starting the games on a stirring note, the "peppy" group plays the "Star Spangled Banner" as the Goldenaire color guard presents the flag.

After the final whistle, team boosters receive a "brassy" farewell as band members continue to provide a musical background to athletics.

We've Got The Pep . . . Forcing their eyes on the music instead of the half-time show, Pep Band members provide the beat for basketball games.

Brass, Woodwinds, Percussion Merge Talents

It's The Beat That Counts . . . Concert Band drummers John Clodfelder, Jerry Lasster, and Dave White pound the drums as they keep the beat rhythmic and steady during practice.

Anticipation . . . Tom Word awaits the raising of the curtain for "Gone With the Woodwinds," the band's "pop's concert."

"Gone With the Woodwinds," the theme of the Concert Band's winter "pop's concert," signifies the spirit which is the key to all band organizations. The Concert Band's eighty-seven members perform for two profit-making concerts—the "Pop's Concert" in December and "Opus #4" in March. Soloists George Nicoloff, playing clarinet, saxaphone, and flute, and "Doc" Severinsen, one of the nations finest musicians, add professional touches to the concerts.

For Concerts, Record

"Windy" musicians are instructed on five levels of ability by Gerald Knipfel, band director. The band program currently ranges from Beginning Band through the ranks to the Concert organization. The top three groups—Concert, Select Reserve, and Reserve Bands—enter the area of music contest in April.

Engaging in the District and State Solo and Ensemble contests, fifty experienced bandsmen clash with the top ranking young musicians in Indiana. Arlington is represented in both the All-City Band and Orchestra as well as All-State organizations. Senior Barbara Biggs garnered another honor for the Concert Band as she was featured as french horn soloist with the All-City Orchestra.

The melodius sounds of the "Pop's Concert" are recorded on the Concert Band's record, "Gone With the Woodwinds." Over three hundred records are processed to be sold to band members and the general public. Ending their musical activities, Concert Band members provide music for Commencement.

From Sopranos to Basses, Choir Carolers Voice

Through its fourth year, the Concert Choir continues to win much acclaim throughout the Arlington community. Performing at neighborhood elementary schools upon invitation as well as at scheduled concerts throughout the school year, Concert Choir members devote daily practices to the memorization of music. Choir members contributed to the success of "The Music Man" by filling the vocal portions of the production. In January, WIBC's radio program, "Young America Sings," featured the Concert Choir and their female counterparts, the Treble-Aires. Climaxing the year for all vocal music organizations is the State Music Festival in which the choirs and ensembles compete to uphold the first division ratings attained in past years.

Delighting their audiences, the Arlingtones contribute to the spirit of Arlington's admirable musical reputation. Its fourteen members perform at school convocations including the State Student Council Convention in October. Highlighting the year for the Arlingtones was their informal concert presented for the Indiana School Men's Club.

School Loyalty With Stage, Informal Programs

Trophy Winners . . . History Club officers Janie Beck and Alan McDaniel place a newly-won trophy in the display case.

Past and present mingle as the History Club meets on the first and third Mondays of each month. With sixty enrolled members, the History Club represents one of Arlington's most active organizations.

Selling the Indiana State Centennial license plates is the club's main project for the year. These plates commemorate Indiana's one hundred and fifty years of statehood to be celebrated in 1966. Sponsored by John Holmes, the History Club is a member of the Indiana Junior Historical Society. Janie Beck, president, is also vice-president of the Junior Historical Society.

Such interesting speakers as Richard Guthrie, Donald Risk, Ellsworth Maxwell, and Robert Montgomery lectured on timely subjects of interest.

Historians, State Delegates Study Government

Tri-Hi-Y'ers Sponsor Frosh Mixer, Senior Panel

Serving Arlington and the community as well as its female members, Tri-Hi-Y, the girl's service organization, undertakes annual projects for the benefit of the students. As one of the most active extra-curricular groups, Tri-Hi-Y sponsors the "Freshman Mixer" and presents style shows and panel discussions. Under the guidance of sponsor Miss Patricia Egan and president Karen Oliger, club members held a unique discussion with senior boys concerning male ideas on current fads.

Each year the American Legion offers a week-long government workshop to specially selected students. A statewide project, Girls' State and Boys' State, involves candidates who are chosen on the basis of their interest in government, leadership, and school participation. As an educational organization, Girls' and Boys' State gives these civic-minded scholars a look into the near future while they campaign for elective offices and organize legislative departments. Representatives are chosen by the Social Studies Department teachers and the administration.

Organizing Projects, Future Leaders Experience

Today's young executives of tomorrow's world are aided in finding their ways into the hectic world of business through the Future Business Leaders of America Club. One of the club's most worthwhile projects is a follow-up study of business education graduates. Other projects include a program on careers, speakers from business fields, and reports on current literature.

Future Nurses of America Club's projects include contributing to the Mental Health Gift Lift, Christmas caroling at Methodist Hospital, and designing tray favors on Valentine's Day. Club members also hold a Mother's Tea on Future Nurses of America Club Day in addition to the club's bi-weekly program of speakers, films, and school projects.

Chosen Professions Through Trips, Talks, Films

"Learning through experience" is the motto of Cadet Teachers. Given an opportunity to help teachers in neighboring grade schools, Cadet Teachers spend two periods daily taking "sneak previews" of the role of a teacher. Cadets devote their efforts to assisting in the classroom as well as taking part in the teaching procedures.

Also devoted to helping high school student decide upon a profession is the Future Teachers of America Club. Meeting on the first Thursday of each month, club members hear speakers from different branches of the teaching profession convey their ideas on the purposes and problems of teaching. This organization relates the responsibilities of youth.

Health Groups Concentrate on Care for Sick

Active in school and community services, the Red Cross Club strives for one hundred per cent participation by students in the Red Cross Enrollment Drive. Each year club members sponsor the filling and sending of party boxes to General Hospital.

Affecting each student and each member of the community is the Student Safety Council. Sponsoring such "safety-geared" projects as the speed bumps, the Safety Council strives to make students more conscious of the necessity of safety.

While clinic assistants concentrate on repairing physical ailments, Mental Health Club activities concentrate on improving the mind. Acting as receptionists, messengers, and secretaries, clinic assistants aid in the care of 3,000 students.

Mental Health Club members are sincerely interested in the mentally ill and seek to learn about the mental strains of modern society. Their goal is to bring a spark of hope into the world of a depressed patient while bettering social relations.

Gathering to learn about a "romance" language, members of the French Club meet on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month to have fun with French. Membership is open to any student enrolled in a French class or interested in the knowledge of France's people and customs.

Carrying out their theme, "Learning French Culture," club members read French magazines and "sing along" with French recordings. An authentic Christmas dinner prepared by club members is the club's special project for the year.

Having spent the summer as an Indiana University Honors Student in St. Brieuc, France, senior Paul Hornbeck spoke to the club about his itinerary.

Language Clubs Study

Students who have become "Spanish-Americans" are active members of the Spanish Club. Meeting twice a month, club members listen to lectures and view slides about native Spaniards.

A newly-oriented Spanish activity is the "El Coro de Espanol." This Spanish choir harmonizes on some of the favorite Latin American folk songs.

At Christmas time, both the Club and the Choir combine for a Spanish party. Among the entertaining activities are the traditional breaking of the pinata and the singing of Spanish yuletide songs.

While providing enjoyment for their members, the Spanish Club and Choir aid students with their studies of the Spanish language.

The Latin Club's fall activities were highlighted by a Slave Sale during which upperclassmen bartered for the servitude of freshmen to the pounding gavel of auctioneer David Klinkose.

Another colorful affair was the mock Roman Wedding, appropriately celebrated on St. Valentines Day.

On March 27, five club members and their sponsor, Mrs. Esther Cooper, met with delegates from all over the state for the twelfth annual meeting of the Indiana Junior Classical League at Clowes Hall.

Foreign Custom While Utilizing Speaking Skills

German Club meetings, sponsored by Mrs. Carol Burkhalter, provide a meeting place for all students interested in the Teutonic language. "Der Deutsche Ritter," the club newspaper, keeps members informed of the monthly activities. Ever increasing as a popular language course, the study of German is intensified during club meetings. Die Deutsche Klub's main events include regular correspondence with a class in Germany, a lecture from an exchange student who is a native of Dusseldorf, and informative films dealing with Germany, its people and language.

Election of officers in the spring semester brings about enthusiastic participation from all members. This years election was held by the method prescribed by the class in Germany. Gail Spoolstra was elected president; John Rafferty, vice-president; and Kay Bole, secretary. Interest in the German Club gave five German students an additional interest in competing for the I.U. Honors Program.

A-V, Radio, Art, Chess Enthusiasts Devote Hours

Serving faculty members and students alike, Audio-Visual assistants help in the effective use of educational aids. Under the leadership of John Holmes, members of this indispensable organization are trained in the running of projectors and the presentation of films. A-V assistants are responsible for operating and maintaining the school's projection equipment as well as arranging for previews of films and repairing films after showing. An added responsibility given to A-V assistants is that of setting up temporary audio systems.

Tuning their dials the Arlington way, members of the Ham Radio Club first acquire the knowledge of short-wave operations and electronics and then the ability needed for broadcasting. Sponsored by Bill Fellows, these "hamsters" acquire valuable knowledge in the radio field while aspiring to hold operator's licenses. Besides working toward this goal, Ham Radio Club members listen to broadcasting professionals speak about radio theories and techniques.

o Favorite Hobbies, Add to Skill Development

Artistically inclined Knights, who take an active interest in art, comprise the Art Club. The Art Club helps to fulfill the interests and encourage the ability of the future "DaVinci's."

Projects undertaken by the Art Club include creating displays throughout the school as well as showing the talents of art students in corridor exhibitions. The most elaborate exhibits are those of Thanksgiving and Christmas when club meetings are spent creating new ideas to depict the holiday spirit. Taking trips to local art exhibitions and studios provide members with an insight into the professional artistic world.

Using their hands in another way, Chess Club members also rely on their brain waves for "quick-maneuvering." Chess Club boys not only compete among themselves but experienced members are in competition with club members from surrounding schools.

Keeping strict concentration on the game Chess Club members study the "tricks of the trade." Edward Sweetman, science teacher and chess sponsor, keeps the matches on a scientific level as the "Knights" challenge other schools. Included in the matches of the '65 season were North Central, Attucks, Lawrence, and Northwest.

Bearing news—both good and bad—office messengers deliver green call slips to students who are wanted in the office. Substituting this duty for study hall, the volunteer helpers perform an active role in the smooth operation of the main office.

Auditorium technicians sacrifice afternoons and evenings for school productions as they work the complicated machinery of the stage. Making plays and programs possible, the stage crew manages curtains, lights, and equipment. Bernard Heeke, in charge of the technicians, oversees the mechanical aspects of stage productions.

An expanding population demands more student volunteers in the academic departments. Almost sixty assistants perform daily duties for departments in physical education, science, typing, and music.

High grade point averages, leadership qualities, and extracurricular participation fulfill the requirements for academic assistants.

Science Department assistants help prepare laboratory experiments, clean up after a laboratory period, and prepare cultures for biology slides. Allowed to follow projects on their own, the students must have a working background in science.

By Aiding in Office, Classrooms, Stage, Library

Students excelling in physical education assist gym classes. Leading the class in exercises and taking roll each day, the students lend a helping hand in both boys' and girls' phys. ed. classes.

Student typists work in every department. Typing up tests, writing letters, and filing papers, the assistants perform necessary tasks for the teachers. Library helpers fulfill a vital role in the study procedures of all students. Keeping hundreds of books in order and stamping cards for efficiency, the assistants aid the school's librarians.

Experience gained from these jobs also help the assistants themselves. Many of them help in the sections which relate closely to their chosen careers.

Math, Science Provoke

For those planning careers in science as well as simply interested in the world of the scientist, the Arlington Science Association offers programs which pertain to all aspects of the field.

Having a more pronounced interest in science, several students attend weekly sessions at the Indiana University Medical Center where the Indianapolis Science Seminar classes are held.

Science Association members are given the opportunity to meet with professionals in many areas of science. These "future scientists" are offered specialized help while working on projects of a scientific nature.

Pythagorean Pupils . . . Members of the Math Club, organized especially for freshmen and sophomores, are (front row) Evan Fulmer, Lou Ann Hollingsworth, Sharon M. Oswalt, Jill Bourne, Miss Rita Jackson- sponsor; (second row) Tom Beall, Donald Goldmann, Angie Samuelson, Nancy Hurst, Jim Goller. Math Club members prove that sometimes two plus two isn't always four.

Ruling against lazy minds, members of the Math Club engage in thought-provoking activities deep in the study of advanced mathematic principles. Enjoying brain teasers and difficult problems, club members stimulate their "mathematical minds" at bi-weekly meetings hoping to become math majors during their college lives. Math Club membership is limited to freshmen and sophomores who are currently interested in algebraic and geometric proofs and equations. Problems such as the tri-section of angles and the use of advanced theorems give members a sound basis for their interest in math.

Young Minds As Females Engage in Sports

Proving that the boys don't have a monopoly on intramural sports, members of the Arlington Girls' Athletic Association compete among themselves in such active sports as basketball, volleyball, gymnastics, bowling, and tennis.

"Stimulating participation in girls' athletics and promoting ideals of health and sportsmanship," the Arlington chapter of G.A.A. was formed in the fall. Through their participation in organized activities as well as written and skill tests from the Handbook of the Indiana League of High School Girls' Athletic Association, the girls accumulate points to earn awards ranging from the G.A.A. certificate to a blazer at the Spring Awards dinner.

Miss Jane Vogt, physical education teacher, directs the "sporty" organization.

Bowl 'Em Over . . . Junior Karen Dietz improves her bowling form as a part of G.A.A. activity.

Block That Shot . . . G.A.A. member Paula Knebel guards opponent Janet Liston during a club- sponsored game.

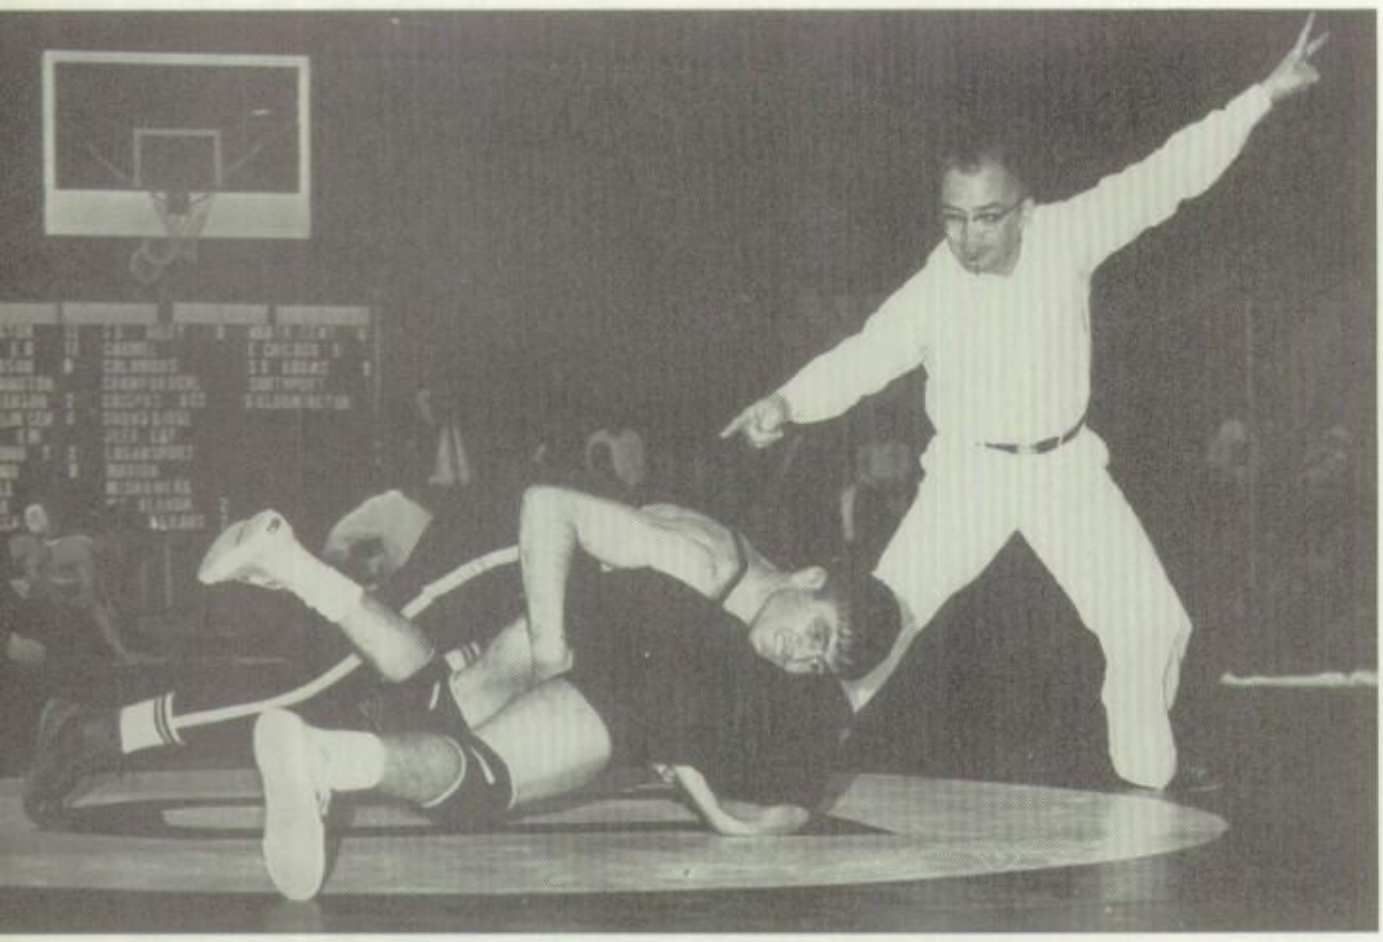
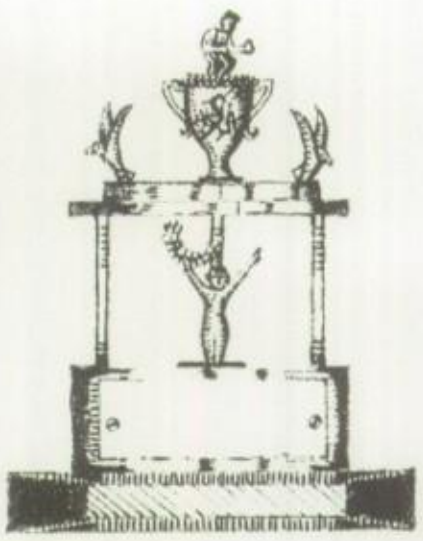
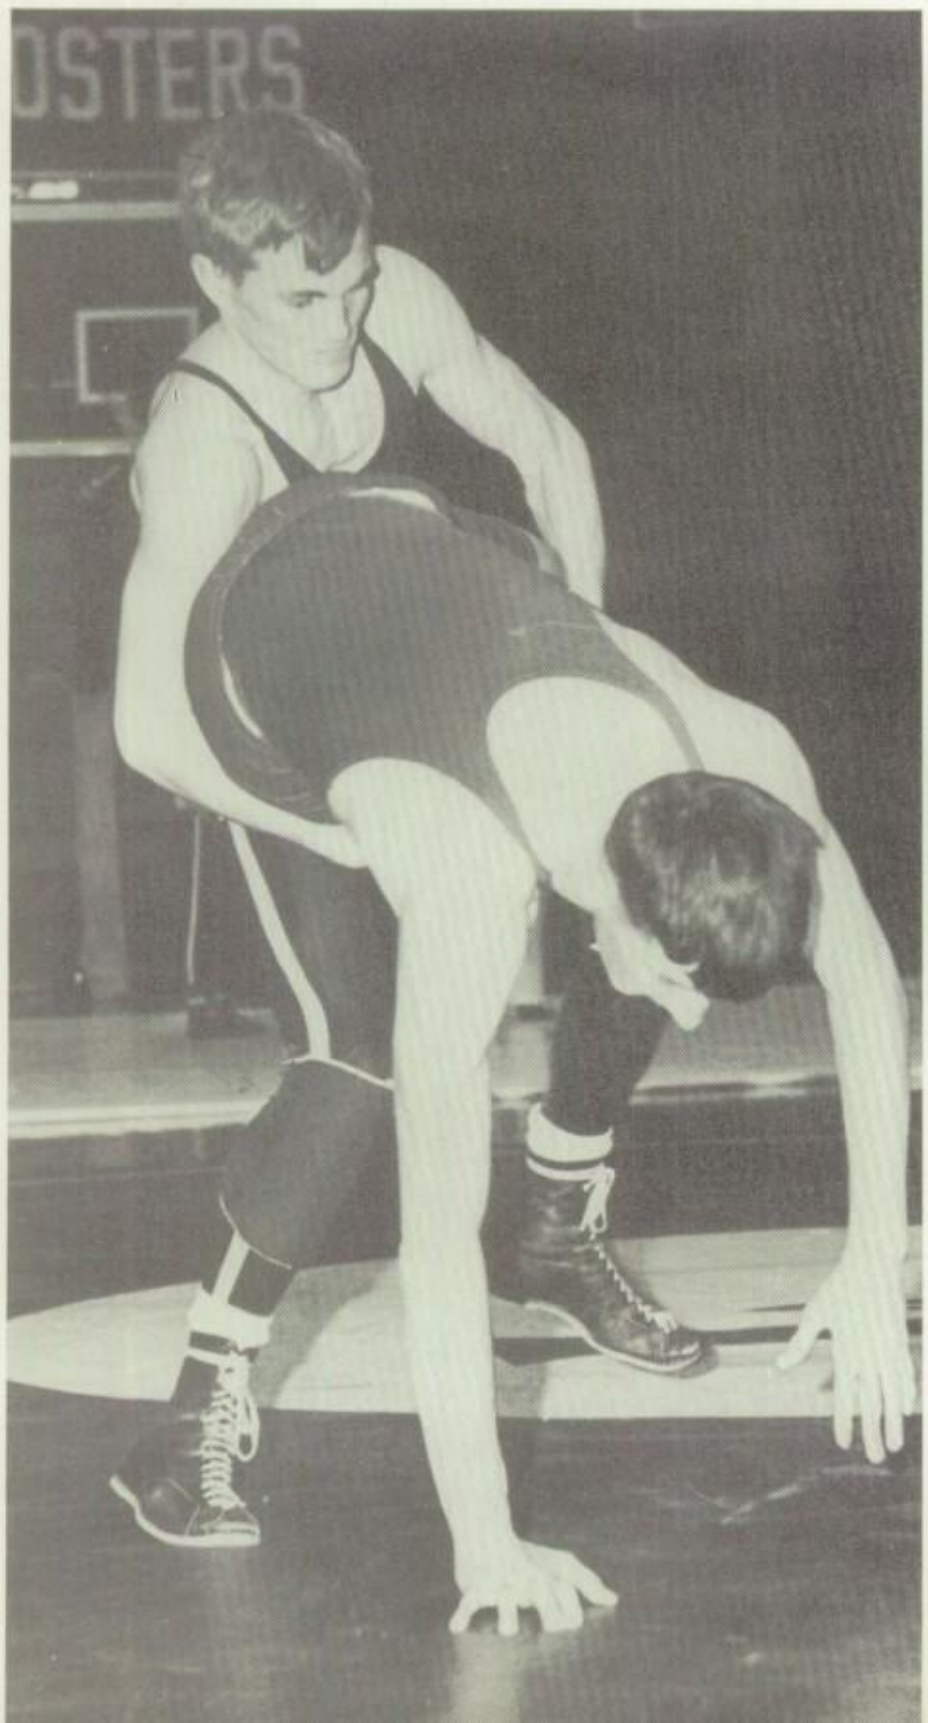
ATHLETICS

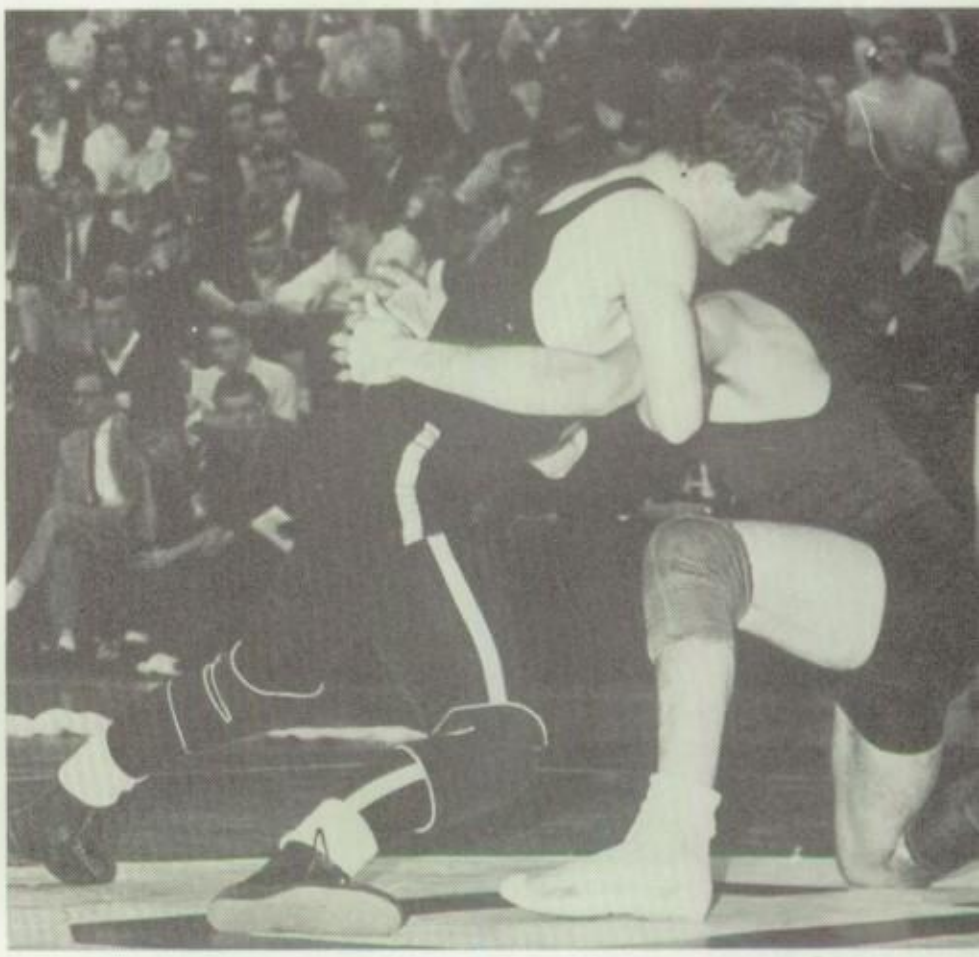


Two Big Points . . . Winning the afternoon semi-finals, senior Jim Lentz progressed to the evening finals where he garnered a second in the State.



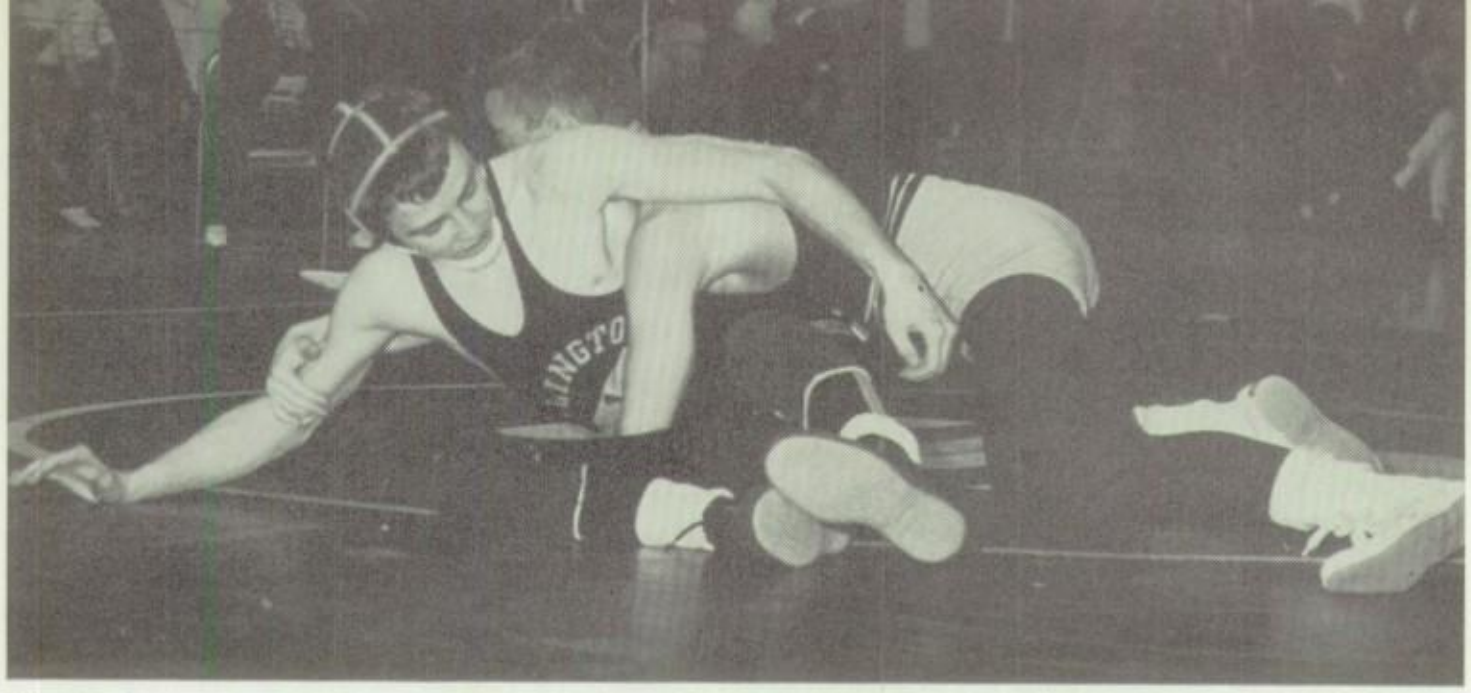
State's Best:





'Hold' Them Up . . . As the referee acknowledges another point, senior Steve Holdaway braces for a hold in the semi-finals.

Bear Hug . . . On his way to state competition, senior Jack Clarke wrestles a rough opponent in the Sectionals.



Winning Move . . . Moving to gain position on his opponent in the state finals, senior Ron Causey displays the technique and power which earned him Arlington's only individual state championship.

Grapplers Capture First Championship Crown

"Squirming out of the half-Nelson, I reached around and reversed my opponent, both of us falling to the wrestling mat."

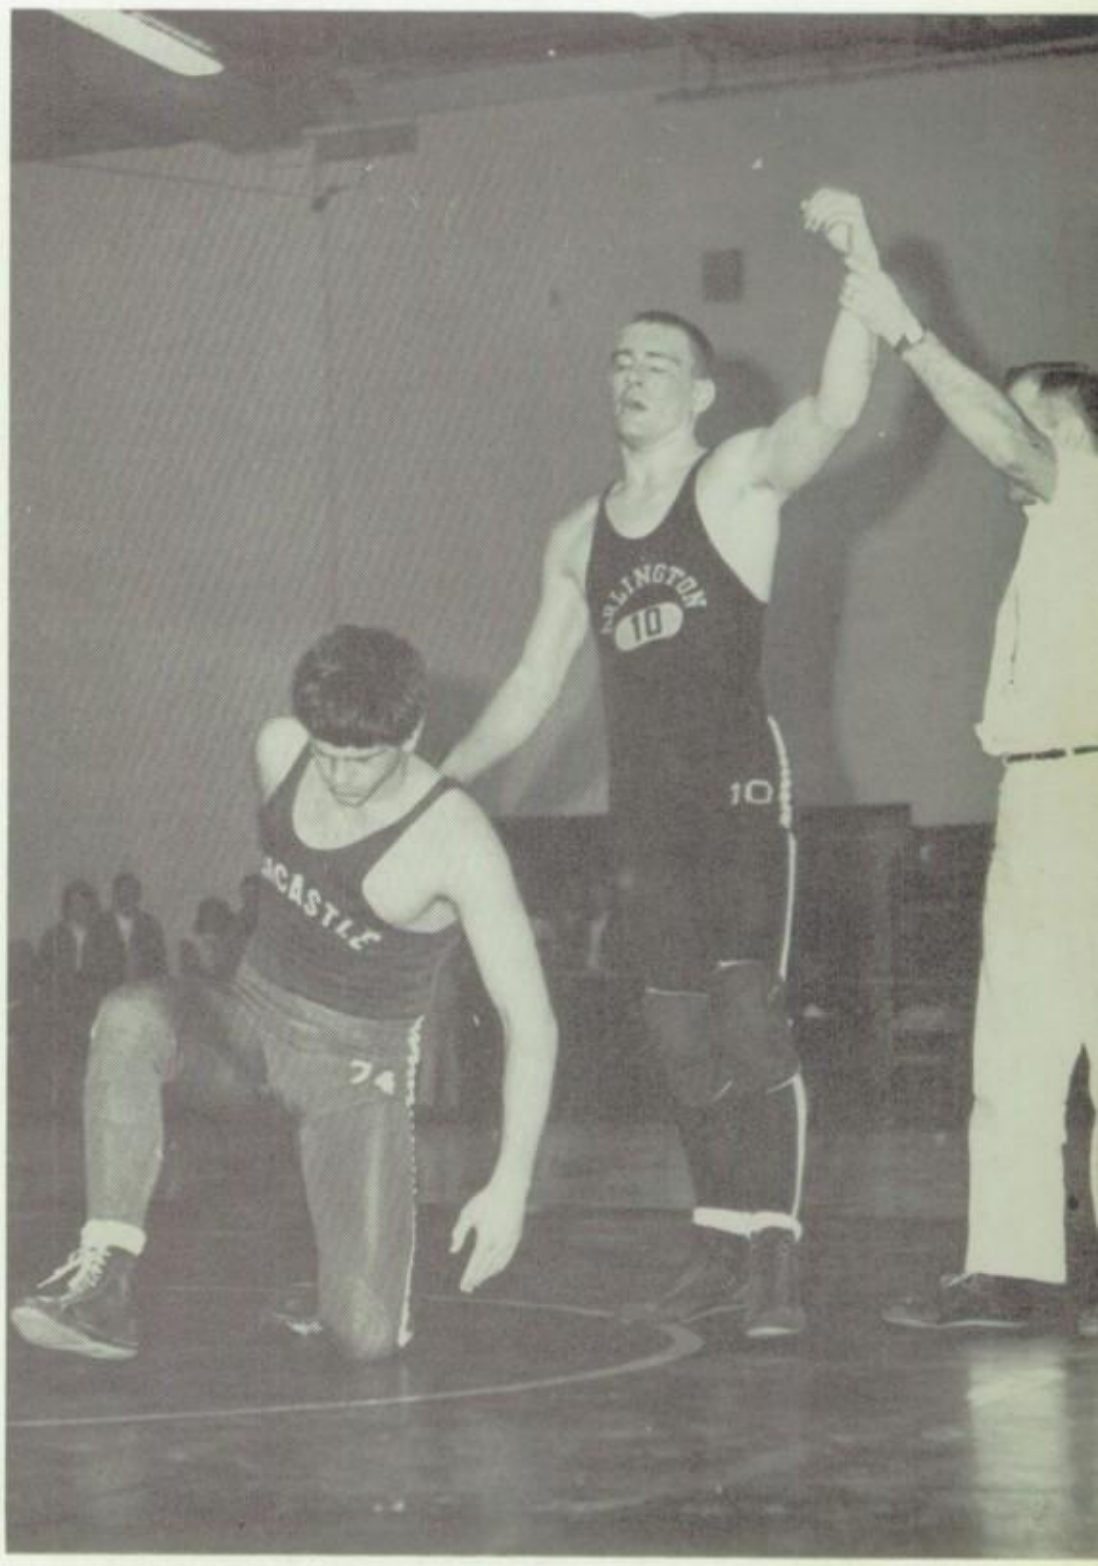
After a dominating 11-1 season, Arlington's "Opponent's Woe" went triumphantly on to clench their first State Wrestling Title.

The strongly-favored Knight grapplers started their trek to glory by bringing home nine first place finishes from the Sectional at Lawrence Central. At the Regional held at Arlington, ten Knights instead of nine were entered. An injury to Tech's 165-pound Sectional champ allowed Jim Sulver, the runner-up, to enter and garner a first-place win.

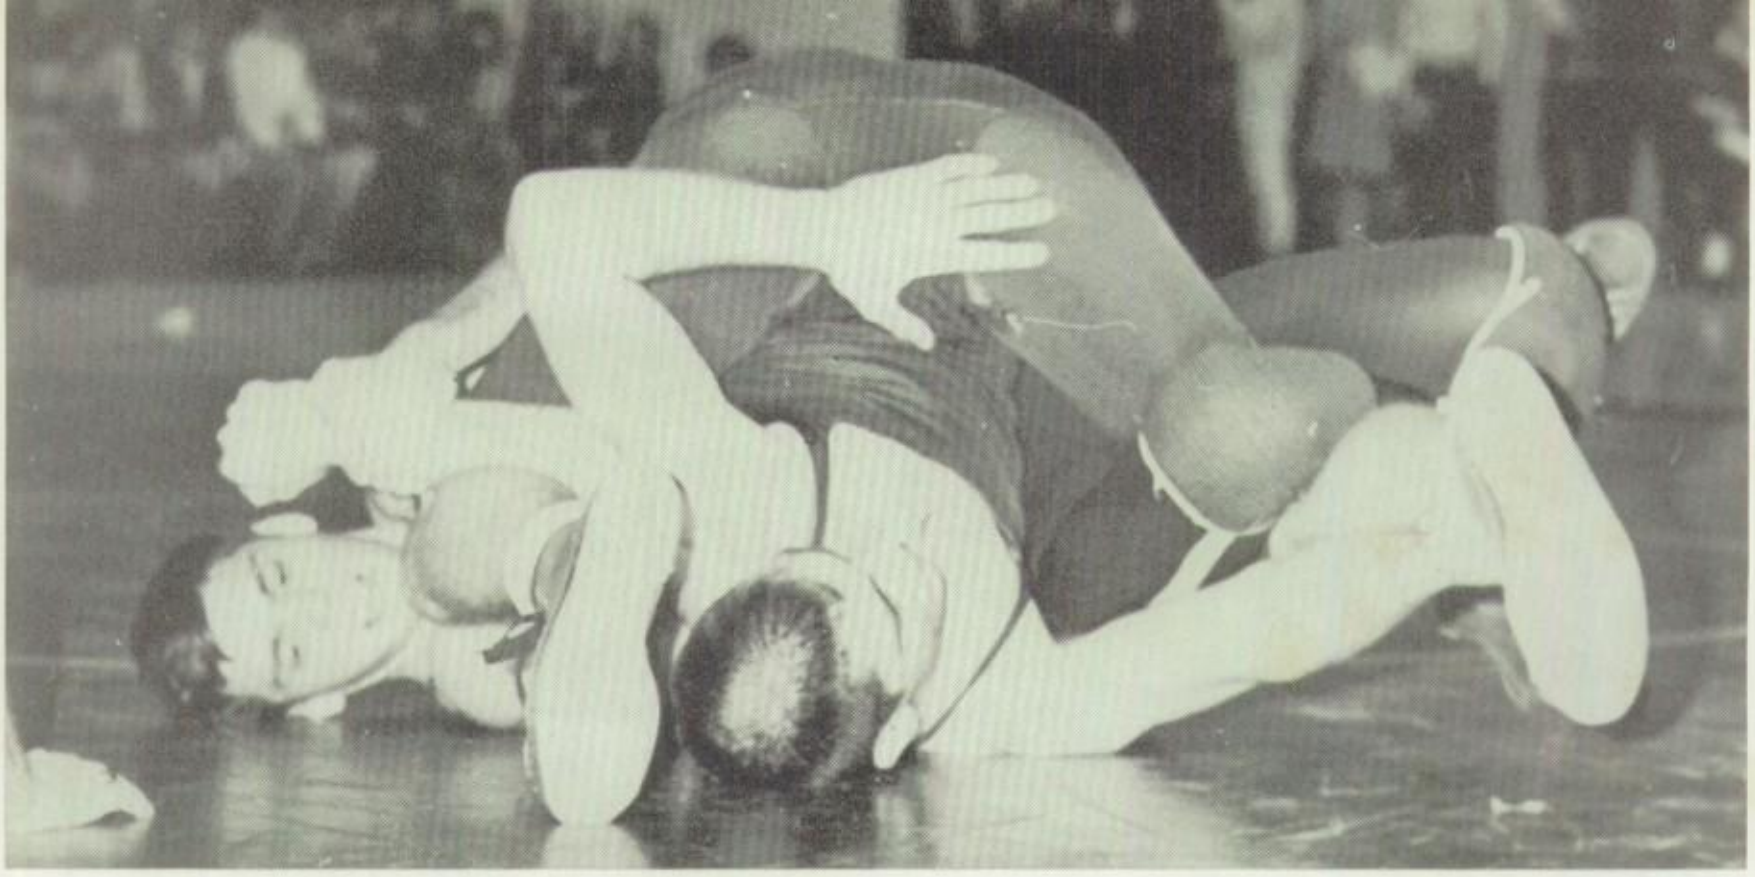
With the state tournament stage set at Southport, the "Murderer's Row" actors displayed their talents by swamping the opposition. Senior Ron Causey emerged as an individual champion, while seniors Jim Lentz and Jack Clarke mustered seconds. The grapplers cornered 45 points, nearly doubling the 23 of runner-up Kokomo, and merited one first, two seconds, two thirds, and three fourth-place finishes.

Upon acceptance of the State Championship Trophy, the spirited Knights put some of their well-trained brawn into carrying jubilant Coach Jim Ellis victoriously off the Southport floor.

"As the clock ticked on towards the end of the match, thoughts of the State Championship Trophy filled my mind and I overwhelmed my challenging opponent."



Second-Best Champion . . . Senior Jim Sulver, who replaced an ailing Tech player, wins the Regional after being runner-up in the Sectional. He placed third in the State.



Winning Way . . . Senior Ron Miller, who eventually pinned his opponent, has him all bundled up in the regionals. After winning his weight at the Regional, Ron garnered a fourth in the State.

Matmen Pull Big Season, Secure Top Honors

Arlington's famed grapplers concluded this year's wrestling campaign with an 11-1 season. A close loss to North Central was the only spot on an otherwise perfect season for the varsity squad. High point of the year was the state tourney where Coach Jim Ellis' "mat monsters" won the trophy.

Under the direction of Coach Elmer Calloway the reserve matmen struggled to an impressive 7-2-1 record. Paced by two city champions, the "B" wrestlers fought to a third place in the city tourney.

Copping a remarkable 4-1 dual meet slate the Frosh grapplers garnered city championship laurels. They placed men in eleven of twelve possible weight classes with six of these finishing as city champs.

"Weary and beaten, I took my stance on our own one-yard line, ready to give a final surge of energy for the cause . . ."

Mounting steam, gridmen struck headlong and hard into a season that would end in a loss and find them plagued with injuries. Coach Al Nowak's men played a tough and exhausting schedule that contained all games inside the county. Entering the big league proved rough as it brought a 2-8 grid season.

During the close and hard fought game with Scecina, the varsity gridmen displayed L'Esprit de Corps and forced the Crusaders to battle for a win. Wins over Attucks and Northwest brought an added spirit for many players as the "borrowed" Broad Ripple stadium provided a field for home games.

As Parents Bring Stadium Hope Nearer to Reality

Rocks, bumps, and dust greeted gridders every evening on the practice 'football' fields as more sore muscles and injuries resulted from battling the elements than the opponent. Parents, concerned with the conditions of the outside athletic facilities, decided to take action.

Under the leadership of the athletes' parents, the Arlington Community Athletic Association took form and began a drive for one dollar memberships, for contributions of Golden Knight stadium stamps, and for the ultimate goal—a lighted, well-sodded athletic stadium. Students enthusiastically joined the drive which not only boosted stadium hopes but generated school spirit.

"With a hopeful eye toward the competitive future of Golden Knight athletes, we build on past experiences and new sod."

s Sub-varsity Rolls Up 4-5-1 Football Season

The reserve football squad, under Coach Marion Burleson, closed the season with a 4-5-1 record. The "B" gridmen, who struggled with several well-balanced opponents, nearly fought to a winning season but were topped by Broad Ripple in the final game.

The reserve gridders slowly left the starting gate with three losses and a tie. With the Crispus Attucks game as the needed spark, the "B" Knights ignited and rolled to a dazzling finish. A close loss to Southport snapped the reserve's winning streak but they went on to gain another double conquest before their last game loss. In their conquests of rival schools, the reserves defeated Crispus Attucks, Howe, North Central, and Tech while tying parochial opponent, Scecina, 13-13.

Highlighting the reserve year was a beautifully executed play by the defensive tackle. After blocking an attempted punt, he regained possession of the ball. With the pigskin tucked in tight he was off and running the remaining forty yards until his digging cleats clawed into paydirt.

Mr. Burleson believes the "B" Knights future as varsity gridmen is "golden" because of the growing spirit, enthusiasm, and ability the reserves displayed through a tough season.

Distant Victory . . . Tensely watching the activities during the Attucks game, coaches and managers plan their strategy.

rosh Knights Toil Through Tough 4-6 Season

Strong from long hours of summer practice, the frosh gridders, under the direction of Coaches Elmer Callaway and Jim Ellis, began the fall with increased emphasis on basic football skills. While the linemen learned fundamentals from Coach Ellis, the backs labored under Coach Callaway to develop speed.

The greenies garnered a 4-6 record, bettering their '63 season by twenty per cent. Grid victories over Lawrence Central, Broad Ripple, Chatard, and Northwest highlighted the season while close games kept hopes high as Scecina, Howe, Sacred Heart, and Tech emerged victorious by only a touchdown each.

Coaches Ellis and Callaway state that many of the frosh displayed varsity potential including Bob Halcomb and Dean Teater on offense and Tony Theysson, Ralph O'Rear, and Al Katzman on defense.

Quarterback Scott Tegarden led the Frosh in their 32-12 victory over Ripple to end the season. His passing accounted for three of the touchdowns made in the final game.

ourth and Best Year

"Running against the regular hands of a stopwatch and the fleeting legs of the opponent, I increased my speed . . ."

From the scorching days of August to the spine-chilling days of October, Arlington was well represented on the rolling cross country courses.

Under the scrutinizing eyes of Coach Harry Sullivan, the harriers turned had work and practice into Arlington's best season to date. The thinclads did not burn enough rubber and started the season on a sour note—a one point loss to Lawrence Central.

Sophomores Eddie Williams and Vernon Bowman and senior Bill Bell then caught fire and set a blazing speed for the rest to follow. This year's times were fast, and the team placed high in the big meets at the Broad Ripple, Howe, and Shortridge Invitationals. The harriers ground their way to strong second place ratings in city and sectional meets.

". . . reaching for breath, I ran until the two miles finally ended with the snapping sound of victory, the tape, breaking across my chest."

Roundballers Rack Up

"Enthusiasm broke out in the crowd as we broke down the court for the winning shot."

Hanging up their gum-soles for another year, the '65 Mehlmen leave behind a 10-12 mark. The schedule got off to a slow start as the Knights dropped their first three games to sectional-champion-to-be Ben Davis and highly touted Howe and Tech.

An unexpected victory over Wood's lanky five set the Mehlmen on a five-game binge. Two tourney wins over young Chatard highlighted the season.

Seniors Mike Neal and Bud Kisselman excelled both on the boards and on the floor as the season progressed. Dick Grabham, Dave Thompson, R. H. Kingery, and Larry Allison all spark hopes for a 1965-1966 winning basketball season.

"I drove in for a lay-up and scored to win the game by only one point."

'B' Cagers Muster 5-14 Slate, Lose Four Tilts

A Second Before . . . Senior star Mike Neal waits to take advantage of Carmel's technical foul.

"B" roundballers, coached by Tom Dobbs, stumbled to a 5-14 season slate. Faltering in their first four attempts, the reserves then squeaked by the Crusaders of Scecina. Following this conquest, the "B" squad copped four additional victories, over opponents Sacred Heart, Northwest, Greenfield, and Pike before closing the campaign.

In the Greenfield tilt, the cagers, paced by junior Tim Kennedy, rallied to a second half victory, 57-49. Dick Meara led the reserve scoring against the Broad Ripple Rockets in a hard-fought contest in which the Ripple "B" team finally won 42-37.

In city tourney action, the Knights were trounced by rival Shortridge in the opening round. Garnering only 26 points, the roundballers fell prey to a rugged Blue Devil offense.

Jim Williams led the reserve scoring, mustering fifty points in four season games.

Accumulating a 6-12 season tally, the frosh "A" squad, coached by Jerry Butler, dropped eight decisions by four points or less. Outstanding for the cagers were greenies Bob Grabham and Lauren Habney.

Coach Joe Draughon trained the "B" frosh team which was formed this year to keep more boys on competing teams. The alternate frosh squad concluded their season with a 4-1 tally.

"Uncoiling the iron shot, clearing the bar, or turning on that last burst of speed . . ."

Paced by ten returning lettermen, the varsity cindermen vibrantly charged into the season at the Hoosier Relays. Senior Jim Arbuckle emerged as the only victor with a shotput toss of 56′ 6″.

As a junior, Arbuckle heaved the shotput 56′ ¼″ in the state tilt. This year, he became only the second cinderman to break the 60′ mark in Indiana's history and set the state record of 60′ 3¾″.

Scoring in every state meet since 1962, the cindermen gain support from underclassmen Eddie Williams and Eric "The Machine" Estridge. Estridge is a sprinter while Williams is a medley and long-distance man for the varsity squad.

To initiate the duel meet season, the cinder-guys downed parochial-rival Cathedral, 65-44, with clean sweeps coming in four categories. The tracksters then downed Attucks by the same score as R. H. Kingery equaled Bill Pell's school high jump record at 5′ 10″, encouraging hopes for a 6′ mark this season.

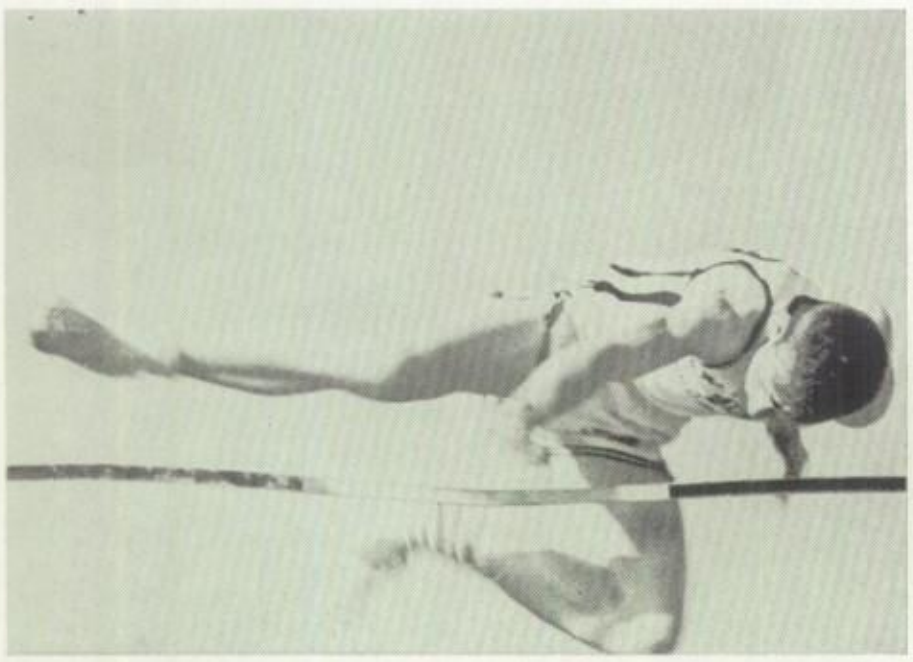
Frosh, Reserve Cindermen Fill In Varsity Spots



Going Up . . . Pole and all, junior Eddie Thompson begins his vaulting ascent in a practice trial.

Western Roller . . . Clearing the bar with ease, junior R. H. Kingery masters the high jump for more team points.

Finding their ranks depleted as Varsity Coach Harry Sullivan beckoned reserves for vacancies, the "B" and frosh teams replaced spirit for numbers.

Under the new eligibility ruling requiring each sportsman to take four solids, many honor as well as borderline students were lost from the squad.

Quality instead of quantity paced the "B" and frosh into good early season showings. Demonstrating quality and spirit, the team encouraged Coach Sullivan after the first games.

Producing varsity potential, the frosh track team showed strength in shotput, quarter-mile runs, and distant runs. Because these categories will be left open by graduating seniors, outstanding underclass cindermen are sure to take key positions next year.

In The Lead . . . Beginning to round a final turn of the half mile, junior Mike Crawley holds his lead.

Wouldn't It Be 'Love'erly? . . . Kevin Dukes watches Richard Anderson pit his skill against Scecina in the opening match.

"With the last set approaching in City Finals, we led with four winners . . ."

Anticipating a city championship and racquet honors, tennismen won their first five games in an attempt to improve last season's 7-9 record.

Placing hopes in returning lettermen Jim Martin, Bob Loveman, Nick Gersdorff, Ron Stoughton, and Erik Sueberkrop, the netmen faced city rivals Broad Ripple and Shortridge with victory in mind.

Linksters Post 'Surprise' With Winning Season

"Approaching the last hole I faced a deficit of one stroke to his even par . . ."

Returning lettermen numbered few for the golf team, but surprises were in store. Led by seniors Bob Lorton and Tom Thuerbach, the linksters jumped to an early season lead with a six and two record. Helped by senior surprise Steve Ewry, the linksters posted a strong winning season to finish the last sport for the seniors on the squad.

Early season victories included Carmel, Lawrence, Tech, Attucks, and Washington; with defeats coming from Cathedral and city championship threat Scecina.

". . . and putting a "birdie" to his "bogie" I won by two strokes."

It's a hit . . . Larry Youse takes off for first base as another diamondman connects.

Diamondmen Pitch,

"The hardball left the pitcher's hand and sailed in hard across the outside corner. . ."

The loss of three hard-hitting All-City players made the season's rocky road an uphill fight for Coach Forest Witsman's hardballers. Even with this loss, Coach Witsman had four experienced players who formed the nucleus of the team. Seniors Stewart DeVane, first base; Jim Lentz, shortstop and pitcher; Larry Hiner, second base; and Mike Light, third base and pitcher were the foundation of the team.

The pitching core fell on the shoulders of seniors Light, Neal, and Lentz. Reliable, accurate hitting came from seniors DeVane, Lentz, and Light.

Diamondmen were comprised almost entirely of senoirs. Coach Witsman ranked the team in power with Washington and Howe and behind city-leader Cathedral.

". . . but I stepped into it, swinging hard and connecting the fastball for a homer."

Outfielders for Varsity

"B" diamondmen swung into a season that toughened them for next year's varsity. With this year's first team comprised of a majority of seniors, reserves will definitely make up the nucleus of next year's squad. Pitching will come from the reserve as all varsity pitchers graduate and possibly the whole outfield will have to be replaced, according to Reserve Coach Thomas Dobbs.

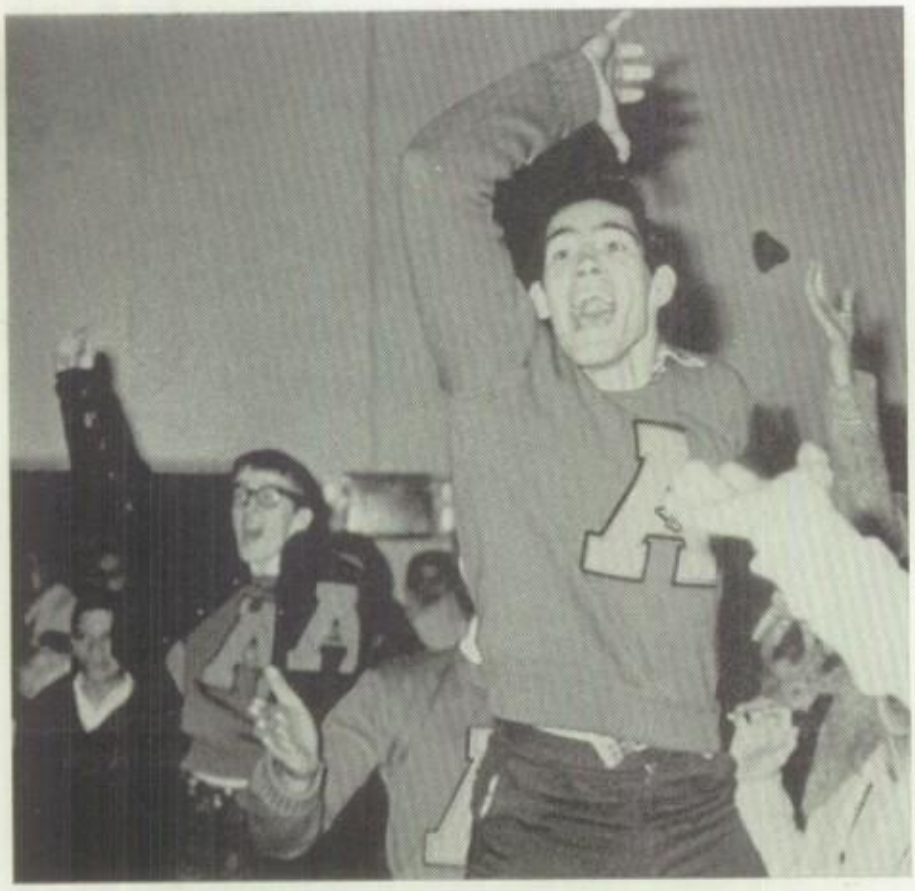
Outstanding players on reserves were Jim Allen, a transfer from South Dakota, and Jim Baugh, a freshman, who led in hitting in the early part of the season. Citing pitching as the key to victory, the Coach faced April showers with frustration. Pitchers didn't have the needed mound practice early in the season. After two games, experience began to help the squad as the record improved.

Reserve diamondmen still held hopes for a fine finish to the season after a rainy start.

Drop It! . . . Offering his "advice" to Washington's first baseman, Senior Mike Welmer uses the coaching box to full advantage.

We'll Yell A Little Louder . . . Cheering for the basketball team during home games, the Knight's Klub adds color and spirit to the occasion. Sponsored by Miss Jane Vogt, physical ed teacher, the organization practices regularly after school.

Knight's Klub Contributes Noisy Background



That's What We Want . . . Leaping with joy over a hard-fought victory, junior Eric Estridge displays crowd spirit.

Whether it be for the cause of victory on the football field or on the basketball court, 15 lively girls organize the sports fans' enthusiasm into sparkling school spirit. Leading such cheers as "We're from Arlington, and no one could be prouder," the varsity, reserve, and freshmen cheerleaders combine agility with pep and devotion to reach their goal—powerful, rallying "sp-ir-it."

Many long hours of practice every Tuesday and Thursday under Mrs. Burdeen Schmidt, cheerleading sponsor, make each squad a precision-working team capable of transferring their spirit to the crowds at both home and away games.

Proving their jumping skills in a cheerleading camp at Cambridge, Ohio, last summer, the varsity won first place and the reserves copped a second in tough competition; the zealous girls also went to the colorful Indiana University Cheerleading Clinic. At the Winter Sports Banquet, each girl received an Award for her service.

To Cheerleader's Yells

Backing the cheerleaders from the stands are the forceful and loyal Knight's Klub members. Approximately 100 girls—of whom most are freshmen—wear black and gold blouses for home games. The Knight's Klub also practice new yells as well as the familiar ones with the cheerleaders every Thursday.

Miss Jane Vogt, Knight's Klub sponsor, has definite plans for next year which include a new and enlarged mixed student section in order to give our teams strong vocal support.

On To The Top . . . Reserve cheerleaders are Janet Quakenbush, Marsha Coapstick, Sandy Neal, Nancy Taylor, and Debbie King.

New Squad . . . Frosh cheerleaders are Patti Cole, Debbie Causey, Linda Friend, Linda Rahm, and Linda Bernikowicz.

Zero In . . . Senior Bill Crawford scores a basket with support from team mate Len Adell. Opponents Harold Milli, Larry Youse, Steve Jackson and Jim Wallsmith failed to stop the 2-pointer, but won the championship game.

From Bowling to Volleyball, Knights Keep Active

Oh, Come On! . . . Bud Sites and Harold Milli, forwards, fight for a rebound in the title game.

From the bowling lanes to the basketball floor, Knights competed with classmates as intramural sports gained popularity during extracurricular hours.

Capturing the Junior-Senior Intramural Basketball championship, the "Knockerknickers" proved their roundballing skill while the "Bouncin' Bankers" reigned supreme in the freshman-sophomore division. Moving to the tennis courts and baseball diamonds in the spring, the boys changed to rackets and bats.

Girls also garnered honors in the sports world as bowling enthusiasts met every Wednesday at Hindel Lanes. Establishing a tradition for girls' intramurals, active females formed volleyball teams for the fourth straight year. Two hundred and sixty-four girls comprised the 24 teams which met in the gym.

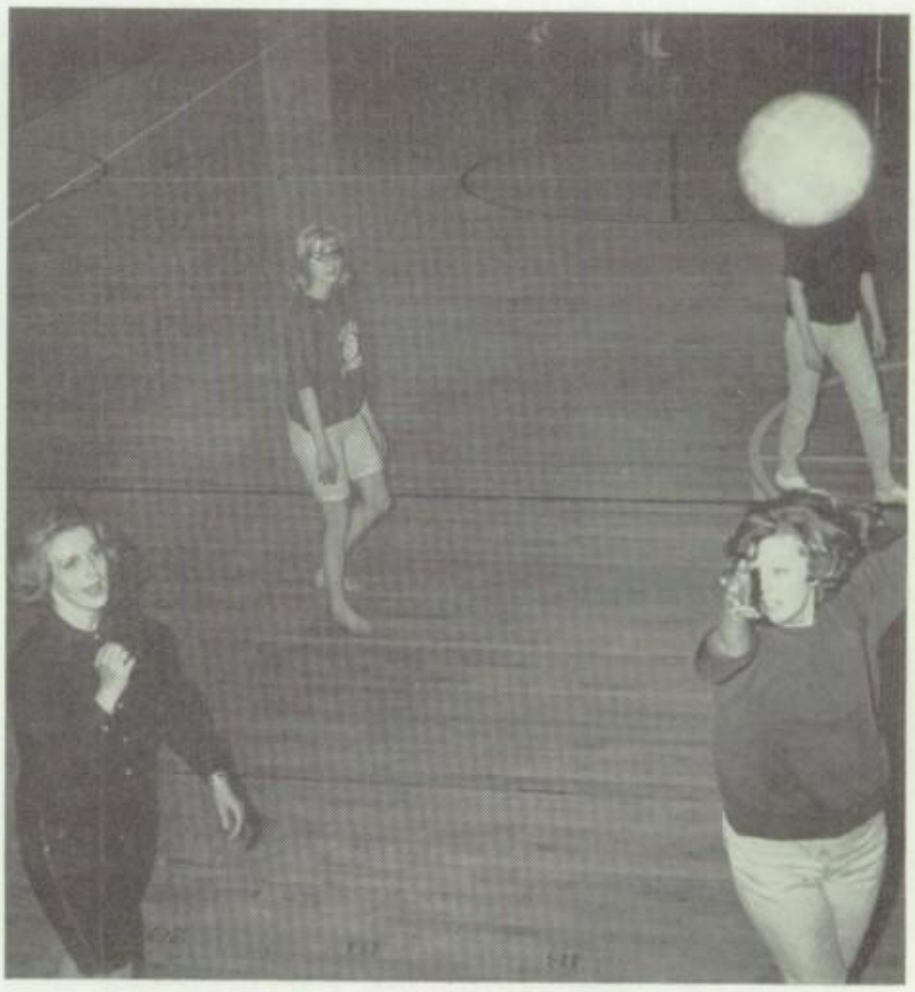
The One That Got Away . . . A slippery basketball eludes Bob Harmas, Larry Youse, and Scott Evans.

All Work And No Play? . . . Mike Perkins hits the books instead of the pins while attending an intramural bowling clash.

n Intramural Program

We Know the Score . . . Glancing at their score are Margaret Trigg, and unidentified girl, Steve Hill, and Steve Batchellor.

Crushing Shot . . . Susie Neff bows to Pattie Cole, who returns serve to opponents during an intramural volleyball match.



Having a Ball! . . . Linda Hamilton, Rita Hurley, and Mary Jane Rader join 240 girls in an after-school game of volleyball.

ACQUAINTANCES

Administrators Counsel

Good Guy . . . Coordinating the activities of students and teachers, Principal Ralph Clevenger manages a "giant-size" job.

Being fathers to over three thousand students is the responsibility that Principal Ralph W. Clevenger and Vice-principals Robert Turner and Thomas Haynes assume during their daily schedule.

These three administrators cheerfully lead the Knights through their high school years and do their best to create good and respectful citizens.

Heading the second largest school in Indiana presents difficulties. Counseling 3000 students, the principals also must speak with parents. Other duties include the massive job of programming done by the newly-initiated IBM system and the duty of chaperoning or sponsoring extra-curricular activities.

Many long hours have been devoted during the four years of Arlington's existence by these men, and they have contributed in spirit and guidance to its growth and prominence. Not only do they donate much of their time during the school year, but they also give their summers to help better the school.

Rendering their time and effort to the teen set, administrators are as much a part of Arlington as the students themselves and deserve a vote of thanks.

Red Tape Troubles . . . Eyeing an IBM list of grades, Vice-principals Thomas Haynes and Robert Turner discuss results of the first encounter with computer-type grading.

tudents, Parents While Organizing Schedules

Honor Head . . . Co-sponsoring Honor Society, Robert Gwyn also spends his hours counseling male Knights in his role as dean of boys.

Girls' Guider . . . Mrs. Belgen Wells, dean of girls, aids Student Council in addition to office duties.

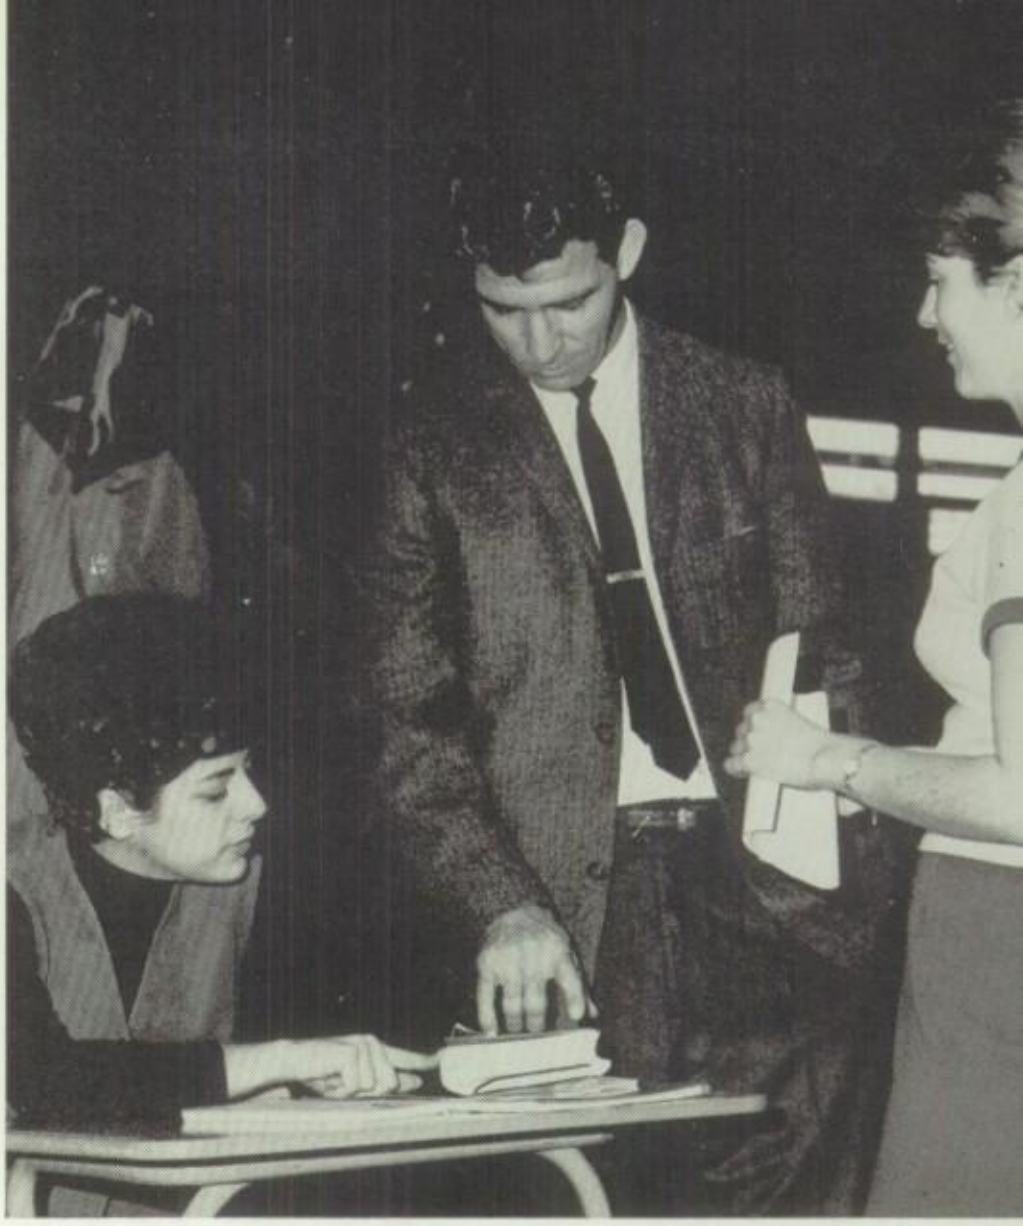
With a thought to the future, Dean of Boys Robert Gwyn and Dean of Girls Mrs. Belgen Wells advise and counsel students, helping them solve their personal as well as academic problems. The deans' activities range from office work to extracurricular activities such as chaperoning dances and sponsoring school groups. Mr. Gwyn co-sponsors the National Honor Society, and Mrs. Wells selects the office messengers and co-sponsors the Student Council.

Aiming Knights in a different capacity, Daniel Welch, guidance director, assists seniors in selecting their colleges and careers. He also administers scholarship and college entrance examinations to upperclassmen planning future schooling.

This year a new guidance office has been added. The addition serves as a popular place of refuge for flustered and bewildered seniors and underclassmen as they look forward and plan a guide for their college years and future vocations.

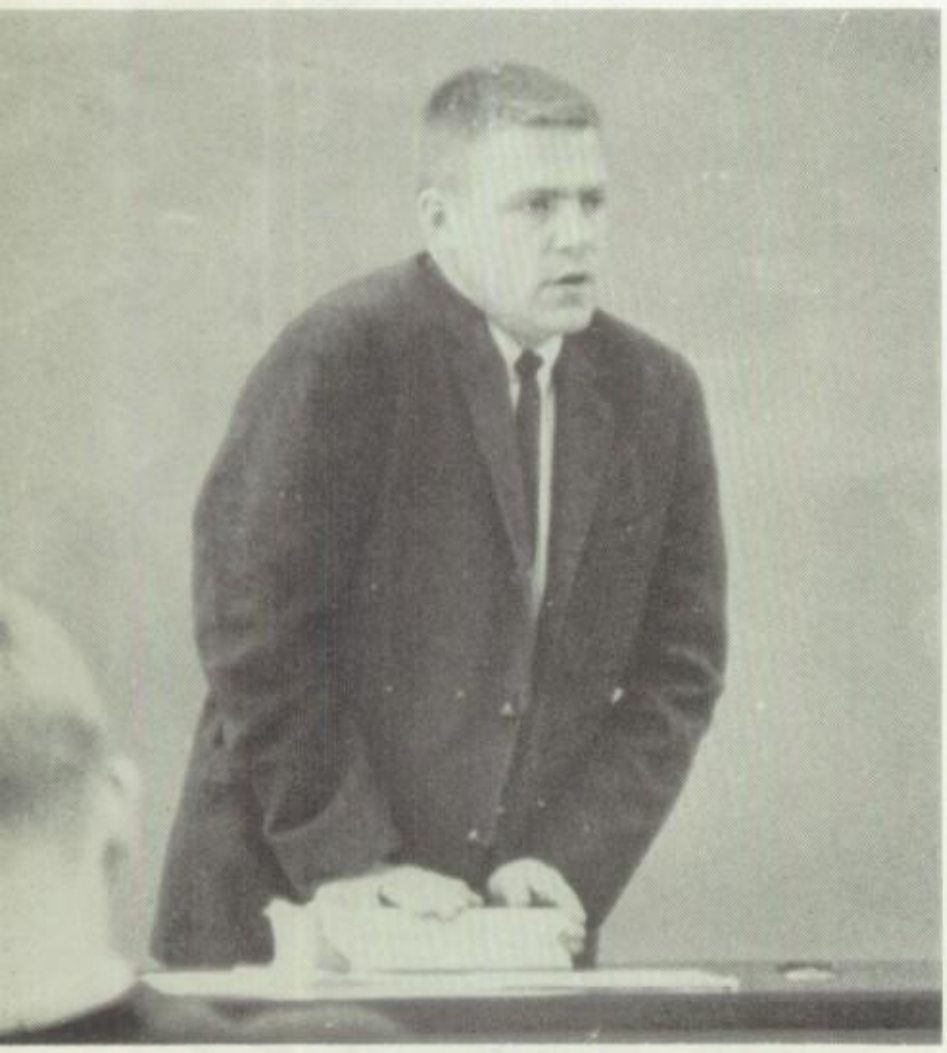
Application Aids . . . Mrs. Lee Campbell, guidance secretary, and Daniel Welch, guidance director, file senior records.

That Means You! . . . Jerry Butler, English teacher, directs cafeteria traffic as students form lines.



Faculty Forum . . . Mrs. Sheila Suess, English teacher; James Ellis, physical ed instructor; and Miss Carolyn Norman, Spanish, confer.

Report Card Distributors Dedicate Hours, Years



If You Read The Book, First . . . Science teacher Eddie Foster discusses the mechanics of physics.

"I brought an apple for 024."

With the initiation of IBM grade cards, Arlington teachers are numbered along with the students; but although report card procedures change, the basic educational purposes remain unchanged throughout the year. Striving for perfection of the mind and body, 161 instructors now devote hours in both curricular and extracurricular activities in order to stimulate the inquisitive minds of 3000 students.

Not to be outdone by the increased student enrollment, Arlington's teaching department added 39 new faces to its staff. Getting acquainted, the faculty attended a fall dinner and the annual Christmas faculty tea. Student extracurricular activities also kept the staff busy as they ushered auditorium productions, sponsored school clubs, and attended athletic games.

Above all, a deeply conscientious staff, qualified by advanced degrees, considers the individual student's role in the future and offers him the guidance which will one day profit another generation.

McClary Mobbed . . . Junior Ellen Sullivan ponders the headlines while biology teacher Robert McClary (alias "Uncle Bob") unknowingly reads the inside section.

Handy Helpers . . . Bob Decker, John Selzer, John Gatwood, and Tom Robinson, industrial arts teacher, build cabinet doors.

From Knight to Knight, Teachers Boost School Productions, Activities

Behind the scenes, teachers contribute time and experience to school productions, extracurricular activities, and business management.

Abandoning chalk and blackboard for projectors each evening, John Holmes, A-V sponsor, directs a staff of boys who keep audio-visual equipment in working condition for daily use.

Bernard Heeke, auditorium director, supervises stage technicians during all school productions. Also adding to school stage presentations, teacher John Vardaman assumes the responsibility of business manager besides his teaching.

Building cabinets and lecterns for departments, Industrial Arts students, directed by Thomas Thompson, lower the school equipment budget.

Club sponsors, class advisers, and production assistants all emerge from the versatile faculty. Also serving as chaperones for dances and ushers for stage shows, the teachers get "into the act."

Poster Pasting . . . Assisting the yearbook in the A-V office, John Holmes, director, and Senior Newman Durrell dry-mount ad posters.

Stage Left . . . Examining a blueprint, Laura Field and Bernard Heeke, stage director, plan for "Music Man."

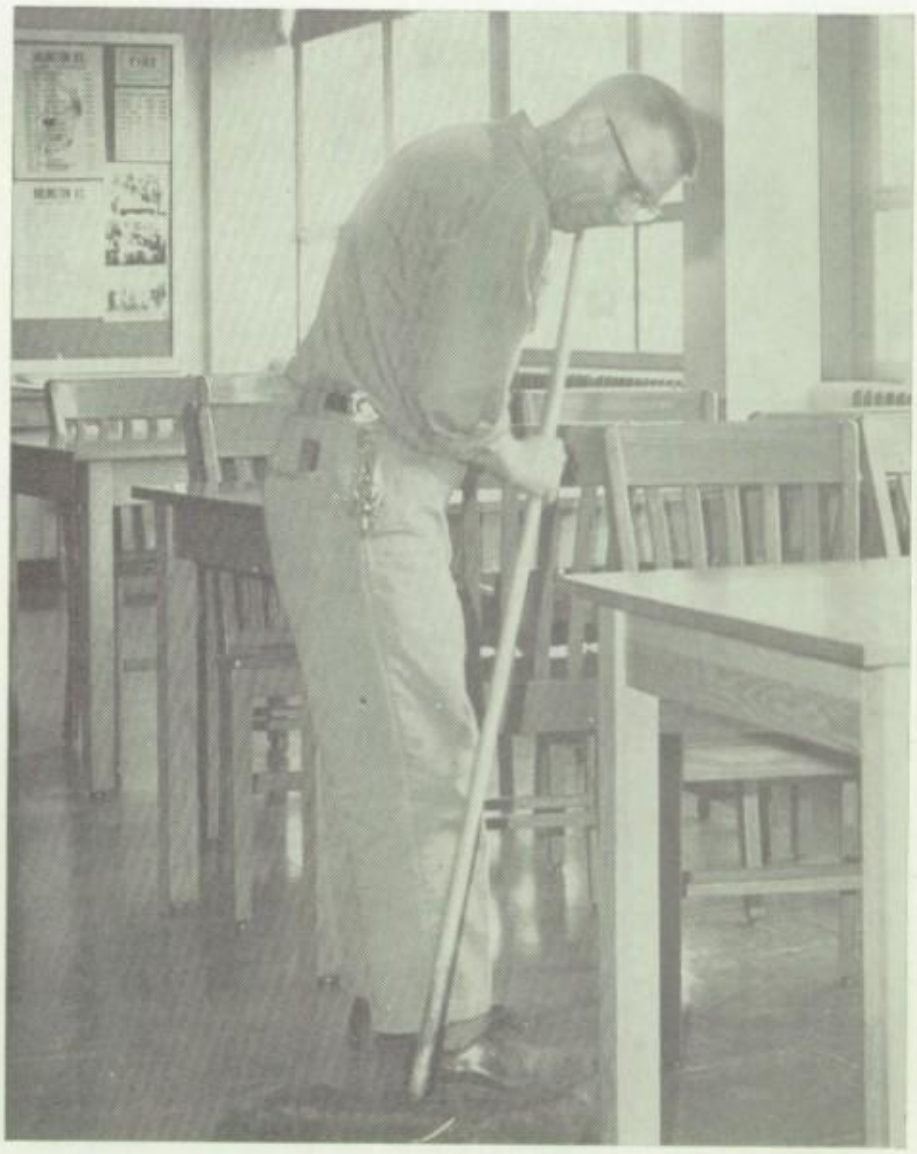
Custodians Create Clean Classroom Atmosphere

Seldom seen, but still a vital part of Arlington, are the janitors. Each day between classes, custodians clean up the halls, classrooms, and restrooms, and make them more pleasant while others wash the windows, empty waste-baskets, and maintain the school's landscape. When students and faculty are vacationing, the loyal custodians polish and wax the floors throughout the school.

A little known fact concerning Arlington's night life is the night watchman. Riding a bicycle in order to patrol the more than two miles of halls, this security officer is responsible for the protection of our school "after hours".

Cyclist . . . Joe Madden, security officer, rides through the halls on his job as night watchman.



Clean Sweep . . . Walter Justus sweeps out the Journalism Office as part of his daily janitorial tasks.

No Dish-Pan Hands . . . Hubert Allen and cafeteria aid Glen Sinders get ready for dishwasher action.

Big Scoop . . . Mrs. Bonnie Blinds and Mrs. Helen Duggins drop ham salad onto bread with an ice cream scoop in a mass production process.

Cafeteria Cooks Prepare Student's Daily Meals;

This "cooking crew" prepares lunch-time meals for over 3,000 students and teachers.

Kitchens Provide Modern Facilities for Serving

Preparing lunches for 3000 hungry Arlingtonites, cooks face a terrific problem five periods a day. Besides cooking, their daily work includes selling and serving the food and running an endless number of dishes through the dishwasher.

A typical day for these "women in white" may include the preparation of gallons of chili, millions of french fries, and tons of gravy. These enormous quantities are quickly consumed by hungry students.

Earning a little extra pocket money, a staff of boys assists the cooks. Their duties include loading milk cartons in the cooler, helping with the dishwasher, and stacking dishes and trays.

Check-Out . . . Sophomore Nancy Taylor checks out of the lunch line with Mrs. Bonnie Blinds, cafeteria cashier.

Finished . . . Sophomore Bruce Kosaveach returns his lunch tray to the disposal counter in the cafteria.

Seniors Wear Arlington Label with Pride, Fondness

Plan of Srategy . . . Harry S. Sullivan reads the constitution to committee members Janet Shumway, Dave Watson, Barbara Freund, and Mike Neal.

"To Build A Great Tomorrow, You First Must Build A Great Today."

Gathering all their achievements, the Seniors of '65 march through the exits for the final time. With fond memories of the past four years, these 624 join the alumni in attending colleges and in investigating future vocational areas.

Claiming the distinction of being the first group able to gain its entire high school education in Arlington's academic halls, the Class of '65 looks back over a four-year high school existence.

Seniors remember the freshman mixer where they made their first acquaintances; the sophomore year when they anticipated those glorious upperclass years; the first Prom when they elected the official junior class royalty; the senior year with a private lunchroom and homeroom, and that last week with the Grad Dance and those parting words to friends.

Geoffrey C. Lannom
October 24, 1947—January 15, 1965

Geoffrey C. Lannom, member of the Class of '65, died in the early morning of January 15 of injuries inflicted by a car two days previous.

His outgoing personality and wonderful sense of humor will be remembered as only a few of Jeff's many endearing qualities.

While he attended Arlington, Jeff was active in music. He was a member of the Concert and Marching Bands during all his high school years and played in the Pep Band his sophomore and junior years. He also participated in the Talent Show and worked on the Senior Finance Committee his final year.

Four Years of Tradition, History Left to Arlington

Radiant Royalty . . . King Dan Meek and Queen Joan Buchanan glow with happiness at the Junior Prom.

We are seniors—four-year creators of the Arlington Label. We're the top. Our generation is the "stuff" that builds dreams for the future, and the Class of 1965 has made the Arlington Label strong enough to fulfill these dreams.

A senior is a paradoxical question. It is inconceivable that next year's senior class will take over with contributions to athletic teams, school clubs, dramatic productions, or publications. At the same time we are certain that Arlington's future will grow brighter with each graduating class, and that projects and dreams suggested by the Class of 1965 will be realized by classes of students who, as yet, are unaware of the Label we have created and worn with senior pride.

We, as seniors, leave Arlington on a paradoxical day—the end of one memorable period of life and the beginning of another which will depend on the skills acquired at Arlington.

As seniors, we go into the world with many loyalties. We will acquire others, and perhaps, leave some behind, but the loyalty which does not fade or exchange itself for another is our loyalty to Arlington and to the Label for which it stands.

RCA–at home in Indiana

The people of Indiana are proud of the traditions and skills they have developed for home and country.

The skills and dedication of some 13,000 Indiana men and women are at work for RCA and for you. These neighbors of yours earn almost 62 million dollars a year. They spend most of this money right here in Indiana. This helps local industry.

Money and employment go hand in hand in other ways. For example, RCA dollars help our State through the mountains of materials they purchase here. Transportation benefits through the steady flow of raw materials into RCA plants and the finished RCA Victor products shipped out all over the country. And RCA employees help provide taxes for the schools, roads and other public works throughout the state.

Wherever in America you travel, you will see RCA Victor products in stores and homes. "Made back home in Indiana" you will say to yourself.

Label It Done—An Arlington Trademark—

Label It Done . . . Recording the '64-'65 school year in 224 pages, the yearbook staff adds the fourth ACCOLADE volume.

As we send the last copy block off to the printer and wipe the lingering traces of paste from our fingers, we of the ACCOLADE staff would like to pause to express our appreciation to all those who have been so helpful in cooperating with us to make this book possible: Miss Mary Benedict, adviser; Ralph Clevenger, principal; Robert Turner and Thomas Haynes, vice-principals; Paula Anderson and Bill Ehrich, senior photographers; Interstate Studio of Indiana, underclass photographers; Graessle-Mercer Printing Company; Charles Mueller and Francis Persell of Ropkey Engraving; and the faculty and student body of Arlington who have worked so diligently to wear proudly the Arlington Label.

The ACCOLADE–1965

We were there, we of the ACCOLADE staff. Perhaps you never knew our names or were aware of our presence, but we were there—photographing your smiles, wording your moods, and recording your victories . . . . searching for a theme to capture the school year.

We stood beside you at the State Student Council Convention, Homecoming, the Music Man. We yelled with you in Mock Elections, the first Sectional win, the first State Wrestling crown. We applauded as we watched dramatic productions and musical groups. We saw you join the ranks of leaders as the trophy case swelled and our reputation achieved stature. We were there . . . and so were you.

We noted the importance of school clubs and service groups, gleaned insight from the weekly paper, and student government policies. As the Honor Roll grew, we acknowledged your progress as students.

All of us were there . . . participating, learning, and making history. So with great pride goes this award—our ACCOLADE to you for a year well done.
